antimalarial agents design and mechanism of action seeks to support medicinal chemists in their work toward antimalarial solutions providing practical guidance on past and current developments and highlighting promising leads for the future malaria is a deadly disease which threatens half of the world's population advances over several decades have seen vast improvements in the effectiveness of both preventative measures and treatments but the rapid adaptability of the disease means that the ongoing search for improved and novel antimalarial drugs is essential beginning with a historical overview of malaria and antimalarial research this book goes on to describe the biological aspects of malaria highlighting the lifecycle of the parasite responsible for malaria the problem of resistance genetic mapping of the parasite s genome established drug targets and potential drug targets for the future this sets the scene for the following chapters which provide a detailed study of the medicinal chemistry of antimalarial agents with a focus on the design of antimalarial drugs drawing on the knowledge of its experienced authors and coupling historic research with current findings to provide a full picture of both past and current milestones antimalarial agents design and mechanism of action is a comprehensive yet accessible guide for all those involved in the design development and administration of antimalarial drugs including student academic researchers medicinal chemists malaria researchers and pharmaceutical scientists consolidates both past and current developments in the discovery and design of antimalarial drugs presents content in a style that is both thorough and engaging providing a supportive and guiding reference to students and researchers from interdisciplinary backgrounds highlights drug targets currently considered to be the most promising for future therapies and the classes of compounds that are currently being studied and perfected the book is a reaction to contemporary trends it describes a revolutionary way of treating truthfulness honesty and deception does our civilization really possess an optimistic bias towards truthfulness most people are offended by overt lies and some are duped by them some of the time even so we oil our social gears with white lies not all people some don t others cause hurt yet others suffer guilt the book shows how to draw maximum information from assertions whether lying or misguided or sincere it shows how to use them to advantage by looking to the reality that underlies the words that are used and by noticing the way they are used words have a real meaning that is opposite to their intended meanings we reflect on this in the words we use a mainstream warning is supported namely that our civilization is in fact endangered false communications threaten us especially in our ever increasing power over the world through science radiative and chemical emissions harm us the book is well informed with regard to waste in science and industry and to dangers for public safety the treatment shows how individual survival is promoted by avoiding the ever more evident pitfalls perhaps by this means our final hour can be postponed stunning is potentially an important complication of myocardial reperfusion in contrast hibernation is an important complication of myocardial ischemia this book presents different viewpoints on these subjects taken from a series of peer reviewed articles which first appeared in cardiovascular drugs and therapy and now in this book in addition a certain number of articles were directly invited for the book the introductory article is by eugene braunwald who with kloner introduced the term myocardial stunning in 1982 the experimental phenomenon had first been described by heyndrickx et al this important concept of stunning is examined from a number of points of view in a series of articles which clarify the experimental causes and the clinical implications the section on hibernation is introduced by tubau and rahimtoola the latter having first propounded the concept in 1989 the difference between stunning and hibernation is that stunning is essentially a post ischemic dysfunction of the myocardium temporary in nature occurring at a time when coronary blood flow is apparently normal or supranormal hibernation on the other hand is a condition of reduced contractile activity the direct result of chronic ischemia and hence a sign of a tolerable reduction in blood flow possibly the reduction in contractile activity of the hibernating heart balances the reduction in the oxygen availability the smart heart of rahimtoola this non contractile heart is hibernating awaiting the return of summer after winter and willing to contract normally again whenever warm coronary blood is restored it is certain that the concepts of stunning and hibernation are here to stay that they have or will have clinical relevance and that the search for the most appropriate diagnosis and therapy for each condition is now under way hence a greater understanding of the experimental work which underlies these two conditions is highly appropriate
