this book explores the persistence of the governance gap with respect to the human rights impacting conduct of transnational extractive corporations operating in zones of weak governance the authors launch their account with a fascinating case study of talisman energy s experience in sudan informed by their own experience as members of the 1999 canadian assessment mission to sudan harker mission drawing on new governance reflexive law and responsive law theories the authors assess legal and other non binding governance mechanisms that have emerged since that time including the un guiding principles on business and human rights they conclude that such mechanisms are incapable of systematically preventing human rights violating behaviour by transnational corporations or of assuring accountability of these actors or recompense for victims of such violations the authors contend that home state regulation while not a silver bullet has a crucial role to play in regulating such conduct they pick up where un special representative john ruggie s guiding principles on business and human rights left off and propose an innovative robust and adaptable template for strengthening the regulatory framework of home states their model draws insights from the theoretical literature leverages existing public private transnational national soft and hard regulatory tools and harnesses the specific strengths of state based governance this book will be of interest to academics policy makers students civil society and business leaders after ethnic conflict policy making in post conflict bosnia and herzegovina and macedonia investigates how sensitive policy issues can be resolved in the aftermath of war by investigating how political elites interact and make decisions in ethnically divided societies focussing on the interactions between political elites and attempts to reach agreement across ethnic lines in bosnia and macedonia the book examines the impact that institutional factors can have on political actors and the decisions they make examining domestic factors and external influence in politics cvete koneska identifies four key drivers of post conflict cooperation cross cutting identities minority veto powers territorial autonomy and informal practices to explain inter ethnic political accommodation by looking beyond the immediate post conflict landscape created by foreign peace negotiators and aid missions to the internal political process she shows the real reasons political actors cooperate and how competing ethnic tensions are reconciled following ethnic conflict delving deeper into specific policy areas to compare successful and unsuccessful attempts at ethnic accommodation this book explores the factors behind the different policy outcomes that sustain or undermine peace and ethnic cooperation in ethnically divided societies this book aims at gauging whether the nature of us foreign policy decision making has changed after the cold war as radically as a large body of literature seems to suggest and develops a new framework to interpret presidential decision making in foreign policy it locates the study of risk in us foreign policy in a wider intellectual landscape that draws on contemporary debates in historiography international relations and presidential studies based on developments in the health and environment literature the book identifies the president as the ultimate risk manager demonstrating how a president is called to perform a delicate balancing act between risks on the domestic political side and risks on the strategic international side every decision represents a risk vs risk trade off in which the management of one target risk leads to the development countervailing risks the book applies this framework to the study three major crises in us foreign policy the cuban missile crisis the seizure of the us embassy in tehran in 1979 and the massacre at srebrenica in 1995 each case study results from substantial archival research and over twenty interviews with policymakers and academics including former president jimmy carter and former senator bob dole this book is ideal for postgraduate researchers and academics in us foreign policy foreign policy decision making and the us presidency as well as departments and institutes dealing with the study of risk in the social sciences the case studies will also be of great use to undergraduate students the contemporary museum issues a challenge to those who view the museum as an artefact of history constrained in its outlook as much by professional institutional and disciplinary creed as by the collections it accumulated in the distant past denying that the museum can locate its purpose in the pursuit of tradition or in idealistic speculation about the future the book asserts that this can only be found through an ongoing and proactive negotiation with the present the contemporary this volume is not concerned with any present but with the peculiar circumstances of what it refers to as the global contemporary the sense of living in a globally connected world that is preoccupied with the contemporary to situate the museum in this world of real and immediate need and action beyond the reach of history the book argues is to empower it to challenge existing dogmas and inequalities and sweep aside old hierarchies as a result fundamental questions need to be asked about such things as the museum's relationship to global time and space to systems and technologies of knowing to the life well lived to the movement and rights of people and to the psychology permanence and organisation of culture incorporating diverse viewpoints from around the world the contemporary museum is a follow up volume to museum revolutions and as such should be essential reading for students in the fields of museum and heritage studies cultural studies communication and media studies art history and social policy academics and museum professionals will also find this book a source of inspiration this book presents a study of the international dimensions of the kashmir dispute between india and pakistan from before its outbreak in october 1947 until the tashkent summit in january 1966 by focusing on kashmir s under researched transnational dimensions it represents a different approach to this intractable territorial conflict concentrating on the global context s in which the dispute unfolded it argues that the dispute s evolution was determined by international concerns that existed from before and went beyond the indian subcontinent based on new and diverse official and personal papers across four countries the book foregrounds the kashmir dispute in a twin setting of decolonisation and the cold war and investigates the international understanding around it within the imperatives of these two processes in doing so it traces kashmir s journey from being a residual irritant of the british indian empire to becoming a commonwealth embarrassment and its eventual metamorphosis into a security concern in the cold war climate s a princely state of exceptional geo strategic location complex religious composition and unique significance in the context of indian and pakistani notions of nation and statehood kashmir also complicated their relations with britain the united states soviet union china the commonwealth countries and the afro arab asian world this book is of interest to scholars in the field of asian history cold war history decolonisation and south asian studies the first book to comprehensively describe the history theory and application of prosecutorial discretion in immigration law when beatles star john lennon faced deportation from the u s in the 1970s his lawyer leon wildes made a groundbreaking argument he argued that lennon should be granted nonpriority status pursuant to ins s now dhs s policy of prosecutorial discretion in u s immigration law the agency exercises prosecutorial discretion favorably when it refrains from enforcing the full scope of immigration law a prosecutorial discretion grant is important to an agency seeking to focus its priorities on the truly dangerous in order to conserve resources and to bring compassion into immigration enforcement the lennon case marked the first moment that the immigration agency s prosecutorial discretion policy became public knowledge today the concept of prosecutorial discretion is more widely known in light of the obama administration s deferred action for childhood arrivals or daca program a record number of deportations and a stalemate in congress to move immigration reform beyond deportation is the first book to comprehensively describe the history theory and application of prosecutorial discretion in immigration law it provides a rich history of the role of prosecutorial discretion in the immigration system and unveils the powerful role it plays in protecting individuals from deportation and saving the government resources shoba sivaprasad wadhia draws on her years of experience as an immigration attorney policy leader and law professor to advocate for a bolder standard on prosecutorial discretion greater mechanisms for accountability when such standards are ignored improved transparency about the cases involving prosecutorial discretion and recognition of deferred action in the law as a formal benefit because of the increasing use of unmanned aerial vehicles uavs also commonly known as drones in various military and para military i e cia settings there has been increasing debate in the international community as to whether it is morally and ethically permissible to allow robots flying or otherwise the ability to decide when and where to take human life in addition there has been intense debate as to the legal aspects particularly from a humanitarian law framework in response to this growing international debate the united states government released the department of defense dod 3000 09 directive 2011 which sets a policy for if and when autonomous weapons would be used in us military and para military engagements this us policy asserts that only human supervised autonomous weapon systems may be used to select and engage targets with the exception of selecting humans as targets for local defense this statement implies that outside of defensive applications autonomous weapons will not be allowed to independently select and then fire upon targets without explicit approval from a human supervising the autonomous weapon system such a control architecture is known as human supervisory control where a human remotely supervises an automated system sheridan 1992 the defense caveat in this policy is needed because the united states currently uses highly automated systems for defensive purposes e g counter rocket artillery and mortar c ram systems and patriot anti missile missiles due to the time critical nature of such environments e g soldiers sleeping in barracks within easy reach of insurgent shoulder launched missiles these automated defensive systems cannot rely upon a human supervisor for permission because of the short engagement times and the inherent human neuromuscular lag which means that even if a person is paying attention there is approximately a half second delay in hitting a firing button which can mean the difference for life and death for the soldiers in the barracks so as of now no us uav or any robot will be able to launch any kind of weapon in an offensive environment without human direction and approval however the 3000 09 directive does contain a clause that allows for this possibility in the future this caveat states that the development of a weapon system that independently decides to launch a weapon is possible but first must be approved by the under secretary of defense for policy usd p the under secretary of defense for acquisition technology and logistics usd at l and the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff not all stakeholders are happy with this policy that leaves the door open for what used to be considered science fiction many opponents of such uses of technologies call for either an outright ban on autonomous weaponized systems or in some cases autonomous systems in general human rights watch 2013 future of life institute 2015 chairperson of the informal meeting of experts 2016 such groups take the position that weapons systems should always be under meaningful human control but do not give a precise definition of what this means one issue in this debate that often is overlooked is that autonomy is not a discrete state rather it is a continuum and various weapons with different levels of autonomy have been in the us inventory for some time because of these ambiguities it is often hard to draw the line between automated and autonomous systems present day uavs use the very same guidance navigation and control technology flown on commercial aircraft tomahawk missiles which have been in the us inventory for more than 30 years are highly automated weapons with accuracies of less than a meter these offensive missiles can navigate by themselves with no gps thus exhibiting some autonomy by today s definitions global hawk uavs can find their way home and land on their own without any human intervention in the case of a communication failure the growth of the civilian uav market is also a critical consideration in the debate as to whether these technologies should be banned outright there is a 144 38b industry emerging for the commercial use of drones in agricultural settings cargo delivery first response commercial photography and the entertainment industry adroit market research 2019 more than 100 billion has been spent on driverless car development eisenstein 2018 in the past 10 years and the autonomy used in driverless cars mirrors that inside autonomous weapons so it is an important distinction that uavs are simply the platform for weapon delivery autonomous or conventional and that autonomous systems have many peaceful and commercial uses independent of military applications this book examines the concept of port state jurisdiction in the context of international maritime law in particular the book focuses on situations where port states have used their jurisdiction over visiting foreign flagged vessels to apply unilateral domestic law as compared with the internationally agreed standards enforced by regional port state control organisations to illustrate the legal issues involved three recent pieces of legislation are analysed in detail the united states cruise vessel security and safety act 2010 the eu s liability insurance directive of 2009 and australia s fair work act 2009 key issues include the legality of port states attempts to regulate aspects of a vessel s structure or equipment or even certain activities that may take place before a vessel s arrival in port the author argues that examples of unilateral measures being imposed by way of port state jurisdiction are growing and that without active protests from flag states this concept will continue to expand in scope as international law currently presents very few restrictions on the actions of ambitious port states such developments may have a significant impact on the future of international maritime regulation
