Jannis Kounellis 2003 museums and public art have traditionally taken significantly different approaches to customer engagement but throughout history they have also worked together in some urban contexts notably as landmarks of so called cultural districts public art and museums in cultural districts reviews their changing interactions in many different types of cities since the enlightenment or even before going back to the etymological origins of museums and monuments in classical antiquity the type of historical enquiry presented within the volume is not intended as a total narrative but the international study cases considered convey a global panorama of the shifting paradigms set in different periods by some cultural neighbourhoods and emulated worldwide blurring boundaries between art history museology and urbanism this critical account explores past tensions achievements and failures giving insightful consideration to present policies and pointing out reasonable recommendations for the future regarding public heritage presenting for the first time an insights into the role of collections of public art as landmarks of cultural districts this book considers collections displayed outdoors from the double perspective of curatorial outreach and civic values this book will fill a gap in the existing museum studies literature hitherto mainly focused on indoor collecting and curatorial policies but increasingly more and more attentive to their outside context as such the book should be of great interest to academics researchers and students working in the fields of art heritage museum studies and urban history it should also be of value to professionals working in the museum and art sectors

Baselitz 1994 mario merz the late great proponent of arte povera envisioned the contemporary artist as a nomad ever mediating and meditating on the relationship between nature and culture he began to make work after his arrest in 1945 for anti fascist activities confined to jail he drew incessantly on whatever material he could find after his release he painted first in oil on canvas then began to pierce the canvas as well as objects such as bottles umbrellas and raincoats with neon tubes symbolically infusing them with energy in 1968 merz adopted one of his signature motifs the igloo symbol of the transitory artist at base a metal skeleton the igloo could be covered with site specific fragments of clay wax mud glass burlap or bundles of branches and decorated with political or literary phrases in neon tubing merz's iconography later came to incorporate the fibonacci formula of mathematical progression 1 2 3 5 8 13 21 34 stacked newspapers archetypal animals motorcycles and the table symbol of the human need for fulfillment and interaction this posthumous monograph is the most complete publication on the artist it includes documentation of his entire artistic production including paintings sculptures installations drawings neon and fibonacci series work plus many previously unpublished materials with a comprehensive history of merz's career a bibliography a biographic chronology and critical essays it offers a deep and deserving reflection of the artist and his significant role in twentieth century art

Madre 2003 looking at works distinguished by doubling and symmetry those conceived as two seemingly identically parts and those in alternative versions and in series and adapting these ideas to the exhibition's staging exhibition attempts to slow down exhibition viewing and make viewers question their own position and relationship to the works on view it challenges the idea of the customary exhibition route one that is commonly structured with a clearly defined beginning and ending point changing direction instead the exhibition insists that visitors constantly go backward as well as forward to reassess re interpret and revisit and ultimately play a fundamental role in the exhibition and its possible mental reshaping guiding the viewer toward a form of detective work exhibition aims to inspire ways of seeing and interpreting not yet charted in exhibitions offering an unorthodox exhibition experience and a new form of engagement that involves and challenges the viewer directly and asks them questions continually during their visit and beyond
