Mastery's End

2005-01-01

focusing on lyric poetry mastery s end looks at important yet neglected issues of subjectivity in post world war ii travel literature jeffrey gray departs from related studies in two regards nearly all recent scholarly books on the literature of travel have dealt with pre twentieth century periods and all are concerned with narrative genres gray questions whether the postcolonial theoretical model of travel as mastery hegemony and exploitation still applies in its place he suggests a model of vulnerability incoherence and disorientation to reflect the modern destabilizing nature of travel a process that began with the unprecedented movement of people during and after world war ii and has not abated since what the contemporary discourse concerning displacement border crossing and identity needs says gray is a study of that literary genre with the least investment in closure and the least fidelity to ethnic and national continuities his concern is not only with the psychological challenges to identity but also with travel as a mode of understanding and composition following a summary of american critical perspectives on travel from emerson to the present gray discusses how travel by nature defamiliarizes and induces heightened awareness such phenomena gray says correspond to the tenets of modern poetics traversing territories immersing the self in new object worlds reconstituting the known as unknown he then devotes a chapter each to four of the past half century s most celebrated english speaking western poets elizabeth bishop robert lowell john ashbery and derek walcott finally two multi poet chapters examine the travel poetry of allen ginsberg gary snyder and robert creeley lyn hejinian nathaniel mackey and others history the present book is a translation and in part an adaptation of a study the authors conducted for the dutch ministry of education several years ago the dutch authorities decided to found an open university a system of distance learning especially suited to students only able or willing to devote part of their time to their studies and moreover not generally capable of studying at fixed times or places a preparatory committee was created which published a preliminary report in 1 1978 this report was largely concerned with the kinds of courses the open university should offer and the kinds of students it planned to enroll the report also discussed possible teaching methods or media of the open university the predominant conclusion was that written instruction should constitute the basic teaching medium and that other media e g computerized instruction or television were only to be added if the written medium failed to realize the desired teaching objectives this preference was mainly based on considerations of cost since the committee expected written instruction to be the cheapest alternative possible whether this is in fact true will be discussed later in this book we were then asked to reconsider the different possibilities of teaching methods and media in more detail in terms of their differential teaching effects costs of application and the committee's preference for the print medium work was started on this assignment in 1978 and completed a year later through examination of the death penalty in literature aaron aquilina contests heidegger s concept of being towards death and proposes a new understanding of the political and philosophical subject dickens nabokov hugo sophocles and many others explore capital punishment in their works from antigone to invitation to a beheading using these varied case studies aquilina demonstrates how they all highlight two aspects of the experience first they uncover a particular state of being or more precisely non being that comes with a death sentence and second they reveal how this state exists beyond death row as sovereignty and alterity are by no means confined to a prison cell in contrast to heidegger s being towards death which individualizes the subject only i can die my own death supposedly this book argues that when condemned to death the self and death collide putting under erasure the category of subjectivity itself be it death row or not when the supposed futurity of death is brought into the here and now we encounter what aquilina calls relational death living on with death severs the subject's relation to itself the other and political sociality as a whole rendering the human less a named and recognizable being than an anonymous living corpse a human thing in a sustained engagement with blanchot levinas hegel agamben and derrida the ontology of death articulates a new theory of the subject beyond political subjectivity defined by sovereignty and beyond the heideggerian notion of ontological selfhood radical evil the second volume in the s series marks the two hundredth anniversary of the publication of kant s religion without the limits of reason alone where kant first proposed and quickly withdrew in horror the concept of radical evil an evil at the very heart of the ethical problematic it also marks the recent publication in english of lacan s ethics of psychoanalysis arguably one of the most important and influential of lacan s seminars in which he discusses the rise since the nineteenth century of a certain happiness in evil the events of the twentieth century have made the assertions of both lacan and kant credible and concrete the holocaust and the attempts to cast doubt on its existence the rise of racism worldwide the engagement by philosophers with ethics as critical to relevant issues but without the consideration of the problems which lead kant to his formation of radical evil the contributors to this volume were asked to consider radical evil in its philosophical political and cultural dimensions what emerges is a clear introduction to the problematic including discussions of the holocaust the placement of homosexuals in concentration camps the creation of the machiavellian in politics and literature a full and fascinating exploration of the radical nature of modern evil this volume explores current images of afterlife afterdeath and the presence of the dead in the imaginings of the living in indian and european traditions specifically it focuses on the deepest and most fundamental uncertainty of human existence the awareness of human mortality on which depends any assignment of meaning to earthly existence as also to notions of worldly and otherworldly salvation this central idea is addressed in the literature arts audiovisual media and other cultural artefacts of the two traditions the chapters are based on two main assumptions first that one cannot report on the direct experience of death so it is only possible to speak allegorically of it second in contemporary western societies marked by structural atheism people look at literature the arts and mass media to study their depiction and reading of traditionally religious questions of disease death and the beyond this is in contrast to asian civilizations whose preoccupation with death and beyond is persistent and perhaps central to the civilizations highest thought the chapters cover a wide spectrum of disciplinary approaches from psychoanalysis to religious anthropological literary and film studies from sociology and philosophy to art history and address issues of unsettling power comforting illusions of afterlife the relations between afterlife and fertility visions of technological immortalization of mankind the problem of thinking about death after the death of god socialist utopias of bodily immortality fear of hell and punishment different concepts in relating the living and the dead near death experiences and cultural practices of spiritualism occultism and suicide this volume considers the highly convoluted relationship between f r leavis and t s eliot comparing their ideas in literary and cultural criticism and connecting it to the broader discourse of english studies as a university subject that developed in the first half of the twentieth century comparing and contrasting all the many writings of leavis on eliot and the two on lawrence the study examines how eliot is formative for the theory and practice of leavis s literary criticism in both positive and negative ways and investigates lawrence s significance in relation to leavis s changing attitude to eliot it also examines how profound differences in social cultural religious and national thinking strengthened leavis s alliance with lawrence to the detriment of his relationship with eliot these differences between the two writers are presented as dichotomies between nationalism and europeanism internationalism ruralism organicism and industrialism metropolitanism and relate to the two men s views on literary education the subject of english and the position of the classics in the curriculum it explores how leavis s increasingly conflicted feelings about a figure to whom he owed an enormous critical debt and inspiration but whose various beliefs and literary affiliations caused him much misgiving result in a deep sense of division in leavis himself which he sought to transfer onto eliot as what he called a pathological case
