and huayan thought king pong chiu discusses thomé h fang and tang junyi two important confucian thinkers in twentieth century china who appropriated huayan thought to develop a response to the challenges of scientism presented together in one volume these are two of the greatest and most popular animal stories ever written even to designate them as animal stories seems to undervalue them because these tremendous works are so much more than mere children s tales although they are admittedly still greatly loved by the young penned by jack london at the beginning of the twentieth century the first the call of the wild tells the story of buck a domestic dog who is kidnapped from his home in california and forced to pull sleds in the arctic wastes in the second white fang a cross breed that is three quarters wolf and one quarter dog endures considerable suffering in the arctic before being tamed by a white american and taken to live in california the two narratives are remarkable for the vividness of their descriptions and the success with which london imagines life from a nonhuman perspective amber fang enjoys life s simple pleasures a perfect evening for her includes a good book a glass of wine and of course a great meal preferably straight from the jugular raised to eat ethically amber dines only on delicious cold blooded killers but confirming that her chosen victims deserve to die takes time and patience so it s a good thing amber is studying to be a librarian her extraordinary research skills help her hunt down her prey seek out other vampires and stay on the trail of her mother who has been missing for over two years now but one day while amber is stalking a rather tasty looking murderer things go horribly wrong amber has walked into a trap the hunter becomes the hunted now on the run amber receives the perfect job offer out of the blue someone wants to pay her to kill and eat the world s worst criminals it sounds too good to be true amber fang
