comprehensive contemporary evidence that allows for a fresh engagement with these pressing issues worldwide in africa and in south africa the importance of the doctorate has increased disproportionately in relation to its share of the overall graduate output over the past decade this heightened attention has not only been concerned with the traditional role of the phd namely the provision of future academics rather it has focused on the increasingly important role that higher education and particularly high level skills is perceived to play in national development and the knowledge economy this book is unique in the area of research into doctoral studies because it draws on a large number of studies conducted by the centre of higher education trust chet and the centre for research on evaluation science and technology crest as well as on studies from the rest of africa and the world in addition to the historical studies new quantitative and qualitative research was undertaken to produce the evidence base for the analyses presented in the book the findings presented in doctoral education in south africa pose anew at least six tough policy questions that the country has struggled with since 1994 and continues to struggle with if it wishes to gear up the system to meet the target of 5 000 new doctorates a year by 2030 discourses framed around the single imperatives of growth efficiency transformation or quality will not however generate the kind of policy discourses required to resolve these tough policy questions effectively what is needed is a change in approach that accommodates multiple imperatives and allows for these to be addressed simultaneously 300 million powerpoint presentations are given daily yet there is a disconnect between the amazing technology of powerpoint and a mediocre student learning experience to unleash the full potential of powerpoint presentations we must do a better job of creating presentations that fit the educational needs of students slides for students does just that slides for students is an open and honest discussion about powerpoint in the classroom a need exists for thoughtfully designed and implemented classroom instruction that focuses on the learner rather than on the technology this book was written to translate academic research findings into practical suggestions about powerpoint that educators can use divided into two parts slides for students discusses the history of powerpoint explores academic studies on the topic and demonstrates how to design slides to best suit educational needs and engage with students to avoid the dreaded death by powerpoint an illustrated biographical record of leading canadians from business the professions government and academia visual mapping and the artist donor interface the creative economy is increasingly recognized as a driver of development and this book also investigates the contribution made by the arts to the processes of international development and considers how those processes can best be supported by development agencies contemporary perspectives on art and international development gives scholars of development studies social and cultural geography anthropology cultural policy cultural studies and global studies a contextually and thematically diverse range of insights into this emerging research field never has a pope in a book length interview dealt so directly with such wide ranging and controversial issues as pope benedict xvi does in light of the world taken from a recent week long series of interviews with veteran journalist peter seewald this book tackles head on some of the greatest issues facing the world of our time seewald poses such forthright questions to pope benedict as what caused the clergy sexual abuse in the catholic church was there a cover up have you considered resigning does affirming the goodness of the human body mean a plea for better sex can there be a genuine dialogue with islam should the church rethink catholic teaching on priestly celibacy women priests contraception and same sex relationships holy communion for divorced and remarried catholics is there a schism in the catholic church should there be a third vatican council is there any hope for christian unity is christianity the only truth can the pope really speak for jesus christ how can the pope claim to be infallible is there a dictatorship of relativism today twice before these two men
