unlike such romanticized renegades as robin hood and jesse james there is another kind of outlaw hero one who lives between the law and his own personal code in times of crisis when the law proves inadequate the liminal outlaw negotiates between the social imperatives of the community and his innate sense of right and wrong while society requires his services he necessarily remains apart from it in self preservation the modern outlaw hero of film and television is rooted in the knight errant whose violent exploits are tempered by his solitude and devotion to a higher ideal in hollywood classics such as casablanca 1942 and shane 1953 and in early series like the lone ranger 1949 1957 and have gun will travel 1957 1963 the outlaw hero reconciles for audiences the conflicting impulses of individual freedom versus serving a larger cause urban westerns like the dirty harry and death wish franchises as well as iconic action figures like rambo and batman testify to his enduring popularity this book examines the liminal hero s origins in medieval romance his survival in the mythology of the hollywood western and his incarnations in the urban western and modern action film this is a script i wrote for a hindi film i am publishing it as a book to see the reaction of the readers readers who aren t familiar with reading a film script may find it a bit difficult to connect with but once you keep reading a few scenes you may get immersed in the story this is a fast paced commercial screenplay but with lot of content and concern for the society the idea is simple a politician cannot become an officer but an officer can become a politician mla or even a chief minister there are a lot of instances in indian history where babus have become ministers this is a pure work of fiction with all ingredients of a potboiler valor romance twists and turns all are given in equal measure to make it a huge commercial hit the universality of the script makes it makeable in any language i am in talks with a few producers in hindi and tamil if those who read it find it interesting and want to produce it i m game for it it s a roller coaster ride enjoy taking it women and gender in chinese martial arts films of the new millennium by ya chen chen is an excavation of underexposed gender issues focusing mainly on contradictory and troubled feminism in the film narratives in the cinematic world of martial arts films one can easily find representations of women of ancient china released from the constraints of patriarchal social order to revel in a dreamlike space of their own they can develop themselves protect themselves and even defeat or conquer men this world not only frees women from the convention of foot binding but it also unbinds them in terms of education critical thinking talent ambition opportunities to socialize with different men and the freedom or right to both choose their spouse and decide their own fate chen calls this phenomenon chinese cinematic martial arts feminism the liberation is never sustaining or complete however chen reveals the presence of a glass ceiling marking the maximal exercise of feminism and women s rights which the patriarchal order is willing to accept as such these films are not to be seen as celebrations of feminist liberation but as enunciations of the patriarchal authority that suffuses chinese cinematic martial arts feminism this book provides a fresh perspective on world religions i describe some of the more obvious religious traditions on the planet and note similarities and differences i am writing brief descriptions as if i were a tour guide introducing a stranger to the history real and imagined of five of the more obvious religions my wish is that even people who live in the cognitive box created by one group will take a vacation fly outside of your container and enjoy an overview of humans past present and future if you can go beyond beliefs faith claims arguments and the narcissism that afflicts all of us then you ask does membership in any religious group bring us closer to living in a peaceful constructive sustainable society from the preface any discussion of religion invites misunderstanding and conflict humans have convened in small groups for thousands of years to celebrate to appease evil spirits and to encourage good spirits to offer more privileges and benefits humans continue to dress up in costumes beat drums chant sing and dance and make offerings to innumerable gods these celebrations help to maintain group unity and often induce euphoric feelings in the participants while there has always been an archetypal form to these group activities each local group develops its own version of myths rituals and celebrations the belief in spirits is the universal form the names number and idiosyncratic expressions of the spirits is the local content if you consider religious expressions around the world and throughout history you would notice that there a number of basic themes with thousands of imaginative variations you also notice that in every tribe village or city people believe they have special relationships with gods and spirits not enjoyed elsewhere no discussion of religion will make sense until the importance of group identity is understood humans may sometimes look like individuals but the truth is that all humans are members of local groups that determine what they know how they communicate and how they treat other humans each local group develops stories beliefs and rules collections of local groups with special beliefs into larger organizations are often described as religion members of local groups are described as religious if they recite group slogans attend meetings and celebrations religions often claim special privileges for their members so that the term religious is used to claim advantages and superior moral authority where none actually exists the tendency for selective even exclusive group membership is deeply embedded in the human mind and shows up everywhere and at all times the key elements of group identity are recognizable appearance enhanced by costumes common language common beliefs and common behaviors especially ritualistic behaviors
