Journal of the National Cancer Institute 1988 this book offers an authoritative study of election observation in africa and its relation with democratization processes election observation is a hotly debated issue in contemporary international relations and in political science it is seen by donor countries and the international community as a means to enhance democratization but has been controversial with regard to the mandates of the observers the cases of its misappropriation by authoritarian governments and its masking of other donor country interests the book addresses fundamental issues of elections and democratization in africa evaluation policies and implementation as well as the historical backgrounds a range of case studies leads to new interpretations which challenge previous empiricist accounts of election observation in africa greater attention to historical and cultural context is required than has been present in previous somewhat prescriptive accounts an interdisciplinary approach gives fair coverage of the historical political and cultural issues involved in elections and election observation in africa key examples of the interface between election observation and democratization processes in various important countries in africa are presented linking an analysis of policies and practice the book contributes to topical debates on the dilemmas and challenges of good governance and on the varieties of democracy as a global phenomenon

Election Observation and Democratization in Africa 2016-04-30 it is well recognized that blood could be the optimal site for evaluating cancer allowing easy and repeated access for determining prognosis establishing molecular targets evaluating the efficacy of therapy detecting the earliest signs of recurrence and even detecting cancer at its earliest and most curable stages the analysis of cancer through blood samples is now known as the liquid biopsy and has been a rich source of research and clinical application there has been an explosion of interest and progress in liquid biopsy technologies since the first edition of this book the second edition will expand its focus to now include not only circulating tumor cells ctc but also other emerging aspects of the liquid biopsy including circulating tumor dna and methylated dna ctdna ct

medna ctrna ct mirna circulating tumor proteins and other biomarkers and circulating tumor derived exosomes ctexosomes ctc play a central role in tumor dissemination and metastasis and have been established as an important evaluative and research tool in advanced cancer and potentially important in early stage disease ctc defines tumor cells circulating in blood while disseminated tumor cells dtc refers to tumor cells identified in bone marrow ctc dtc are extremely rare events even in late stage cancer and their detection has presented enormous technical challenges with the emergence of multiple technologies developed to address these challenges including enrichment identification and sophisticated analytical techniques to evaluate ctc and other cells in circulation that may also be important in the biology of metastasis as foundational as ctc dtc has been the field of liquid biopsy has expanded well beyond these analytes the relevance of circulating nucleic acids derived from tumor cells has quickly progressed from research to the clinic there are now well established clinical applications for using ctdna rna to determine therapeutic targets follow disease progression and detect cancer recurrence long before routine clinical methods one of the most exciting new areas of work is the possibility of using these circulating tumor derived nucleic acids to detect cancer at its earliest and potentially most curable stages another new and burgeoning area is the detection and analysis of ctexosomes these highly abundant particles which are actively secreted from tumor and indeed all cells represent a novel way to detect and define multiple analytes of importance including proteins dna and medna rna mirna and other cell components that are protected and preserved in these compact structures this second edition of circulating tumor cells advances in liquid biopsy technologies is entirely new and brings together leaders and innovators in the field of liquid biopsy including basic and molecular biologists chemists engineers statisticians experts in tumor banking test developers research administrators and clinicians a special feature of this book is that it includes chapters from the members of the us national cancer institute liquid biopsy consortium this edition also includes many of the participants of the latest international meeting on the advances in circulating tumor cells actc which is held in greece every two years and gathers the most important liquid biopsy investigators from around the world thus this edition represents the most comprehensive and up to date resource for those who want to further explore the exciting field of ctc and other liquid biopsy technologies the new edition will be useful to a wide audience including scientists studying metastasis cancer researchers translational scientists oncologic surgeons medical oncologists members of the biopharmaceutical industry and graduate and undergraduate students studying cancer biology

Anticancer Research 1990 emergency managers and officials have seen a tremendous increase in the planning responsibilities placed on their shoulders over the last decade crisis management and emergency planning preparing for today's challenges supplies time tested insights to help communities and organizations become better prepared to cope with natural and manmade disasters

Circulating Tumor Cells 2023-08-01 this book explores the differences between extrinsic and intrinsic corporate social responsibility csr the former is driven by an assumed positive relationship between csr activities and financial performance while the latter stems from a moral duty these differences can be both banal and profound because they often depend on definitions and because the scope purpose and legitimacy of intrinsic csr is vague under researched and subject to context the book discusses the two manifestations of csr through both applied and conceptual approaches considering questions such as are there any differences if so in which areas aspects consequences how do they relate to each other which one is better and how could this be identified in finding answers to the above the book reflects on the impact the difference has on csr stakeholders furthermore a closer look at swiss small and medium sized enterprises smes and their culture of democratic decisions hand shake quality prudence embeddedness in their respective communities and their willingness to give something back to society allows the limitation impetus and the legitimacy of intrinsic csr to be identified

Crisis Management and Emergency Planning 2013-12-04 when army psychiatrist nidal hasan walked into the fort hood soldier readiness processing center and opened fire on soldiers within he perpetrated the worst mass shooting on a united states military base in our country's history death on base is an in depth look at the events surrounding the tragic mass murder that took place on november 5 2009 and an investigation into the causes and influences that factored into the attack the story begins with hasan's early life in virginia continues with his time at fort hood texas covers the events of the shooting and concludes with his trial the authors analyze hasan's connections to radical muslim cleric anwar al awlaki and al qaeda in the arabian peninsula aqap and demonstrate how radical islam fueled hasan's hatred of both the american military and the soldiers he treated hasan's mass shooting is compared with others such as george hennard's shooting rampage at luby's in killeen in 1991 charles whitman at the university of texas and virginia tech shooter seung hui cho the authors explore the strange paradox that the shooting at fort hood was classified as workplace
