un grande libro di gian carlo fusco il giornalista e scrittore che ha avuto la capacità di ritrarre magistralmente l'italia del secondo novecento la cronaca della micidiale campagna di russia every nation has its founding myth and for modern china it is the long march a revolutionary comic masterpiece an icon of literature as american pop art and a book unlike any other the adventures of mao on the long march breaks all frames frederic tuten's subversive witty and triumphant 1971 novel is caught somewhere between the clear eyed rhapsodies of james fenimore cooper and mao tse tung's own address to the yenan forum on art and literature tuten peppers his deadpan textbook narrative of mao's long march with loving parodies of hemingway kerouac dos passos and malamud as john updike comments the book includes twenty seven pages of straight history of the long march and thirty six and a half pages of quotations in quotation marks from unidentified sources such as diligent research discovers hawthorne's marble faun walter pater's marius the epicurean and twenty six pages of what might be considered normal novelistic substance imaginary encounters and conversation for example chairman mao is in his tent after the strain of the tatu campaign he hears the rumble of a tank a tank covered with peonies and laurels advances towards him mao thinks the tank will crush him but it clanks to a halt the turret rises hesitantly greta garbo dressed in red sealskin boots red railway man's cap and red satin coveralls emerges she speaks mao i have been bad in moscow and wicked in paris i have been loved in every capital but i have never met a man whom i could love that man is you mao mao mine mao considers this dialectically the woman is clearly mad yet she is beautiful and the tank seems to work the authors set off to retrace the red army's journey and record the experiences of the last remaining witnesses and participants of the long march they found history alive all along the route including tibetans whose accounts the chinese censors wanted to ban and sensationally the woman who may be mao's long lost daughter this book is based on eye witness evidence and contemporary records it contrasts starkly not only with the official version but also with recent claims that the march was a fraud the long march really did happen but not as mao told it bringing together the historic event with images of changing society and their won march a remarkable feat of endurance itself the authors offer an exclusive picture of china past and present back cover discusses renowned masters including roberto rossellini and federico fellini as well as directors lesser known outside italy like dino risi and ettore scola the author examines overlooked italian genre films such as horror movies comedies and westerns and he also devotes attention to neglected periods like the fascist era he illuminates the epic scope of italian filmmaking showing it to be a powerful cultural force in italy and leaving no doubt about its enduring influence abroad encompassing the social political and technical aspects of the craft the author recreates the world of italian cinema the long march the first such expedition in history was made by the chinese workers and peasants red army under the leadership of the chinese communist party and chairman mao tsetung during the period of 1934-36 covering 25 000 li 12 500 kilometres the march ended in victory after breaching heavy enemy encirclements and overcoming innumerable dangers and difficulties this book is a record of the author's six years from 1930 when he served first as chairman mao tsetung's orderly and then as bodyguard here are his impressions of the chairman's life and work focussing on the long march and of the red army in time of trial these reminiscences of the revolution highlight the historical events of that period and bring out vividly chairman mao's revolutionary outlook and plain living describes the events of the 6 000 mile march undertaken by mao tse tung and his communist followers as they retreated before the forces of chiang kai shek shows how human rights displaced anti imperialism as the dominant framework for changing the world in the 1960s and 1970s providing fresh analysis of the history and politics of chinese communism this book utilizes previously inaccessible sources to reassess the epic long march it sheds new light on the revolutionary momentum and political structure of the chinese communist party in the 1930s an engrossing account new york times book review of the red army's flight from the superior forces of chiang kai shek in china during 1934-1935 authortour estate 1950 in un campo di addestramento tra i boschi di pini le foschie soffocanti e insieme questi testi presentano il quadro complesso della vita militare la sua durezza le privazioni le idiozie ma anche il cameratismo e l'innegabile seducente fascino smascherandone ogni ipocrita retorica some two thousand women participated in the long march but their experience of this seminal event in the history of communist china is rarely represented in choosing revolution helen praeger young presents her interviews with twenty two veterans of the red army's legendary 6 000 mile retreat to victory before the advancing nationalist army enormously rich in detail young's choosing revolution reveals the complex interplay between women's experiences and the official almost mythic version of the long march in addition to their riveting stories of the march itself young's subjects reveal much about what it meant in China to grow up female and in many cases poor during the first decades of the twentieth century in speaking about the work they did and how they adapted to the demands of being a soldier these women both educated individuals who were well known leaders and illiterate peasants reveal the long march as only one of many segments of the revolutionary paths they chose against a background of diverse perspectives on the long march young presents the experiences of four women in detail one who brought her infant daughter with her on the long march one who gave birth during the march one who was a child participant and one who attended medical school during the march young also includes the stories of three women who did not finish the long march her unique record of ordinary women in revolutionary circumstances reveals the tenacity and resilience that led these individuals far beyond the limits of most Chinese women's lives in 1860 fifteen year old Simon Green with the help of a drover a dog and two companions herds one thousand turkeys from Missouri to Denver Colorado in hopes of selling them at a profit the long march a year long retreat made by the Chinese Communist Red Army escaping from destruction by the Nationalist forces is a central turning point in the history of modern China thirty women marched with the top leaders including Mao Zedong and Deng Xiaoping during the 6 000 mile trek and 3 000 women were among the ranks this book one of the few to focus on the women tells their story through the biographies of three key players just 17 when they became lovers Mao's second wife he Zizhen bore his children along the way and was forced to leave them behind Kang Keqing wife of Zhu De endured the same hardships as the men shouldered arms and fought alongside her male comrades commander Wang Quanyuan was captured with her battalion by enemy cavalry that forced the women to become concubines drawing on interviews and published and unpublished sources this book details their experiences on the march and subsequent lives in Communist China the book is a must read for anybody interested in the future development of European private law European private law news this volume contains a valuable collection of essays by a group of reputable academics each dealing with a particular aspect of the development of a substantive law of contract at European level the contributors have a variety of interests and perspectives the topic is clearly of great current interest throughout the European Union and beyond Peter Stone University of Essex UK European private law after the common frame of reference brings together several interesting contributions from a distinguished group of scholars and sheds light on the important issue of legal harmonization from an interdisciplinary and comparative perspective Francesco Parisi University of Minnesota US and University of Bologna Italy the common frame of reference has several potential functions some reconcilable others mutually exclusive its size its shape its true legal nature and its content all remain contested modest or ambitious toolbox or code in waiting its chameleon character is its strength and simultaneously its weakness and equally the reason why it has attracted such attention in this book the editors have assembled a veritable who's who in the field and it is a terrific read Stephen Weatherill University of Oxford UK this book paves the way for and initiates the second generation of research in European private law subsequent to the draft common frame of reference DCFR needed for the 21st century the book gives a voice to the growing dissatisfaction in academic discourse that the DCFR as it stands in 2009 does not actually represent the condensed available knowledge on the possible future of European private law the contributions in this book focus on the legitimacy of law making through academics both now and in the future and on the possible conceptual choices which will affect the future of European private law drawing on experience gained from the DCFR the authors advocate the competition of ideas and concepts this fascinating book will be a must read for European lawyers private lawyers in the member states and academics dealing with conceptual issues of the future of the national and the European private law advanced students in both law and international business will also find this book invaluable as will US scholars interested in the US EU comparison of different legal orders this authoritative commentary drafted by scholars of the academic network on the European Social Charter and Social Rights ANESC is aimed both at researchers studying socio-economic rights in Europe and at legal practitioners civil society organisations trade unions and ministerial staff engaging with the procedures of the European Committee of Social Rights the text is compiled by a large body of expert contributors working together with an editorial board under the supervision of a scientific committee which reviews the quality of each chapter the scientific committee is composed of the most respected experts on the European Social Charter and Social Rights in Europe the commentary will offer approx 106 chapters organized in 8 volumes some of which are focused on the substantive state obligations and the jurisprudence of the European Committee of Social Rights others on the procedures that state representatives international bodies and applicants must follow to engage with the system of the European Social Charter volume 1 deals with cross-cutting themes and is edited by Stefano Angelini and Carole Nivard this volume includes a number of papers written in English and published in the last fifteen years in which the Italian labour market faced many changes the book not only provides the international readership with a frame of reference in both conceptual and legal terms that helps to appreciate the Italian labour law currently in force but also represents a contribution to moving beyond the self-referential nature of the Italian debate on the reform of labour laws as such the book supplies the reform process of the Italian labour market with an international and comparative dimension which in accordance with the programmatic approach of Marco Biagi will also feed the debate at the national level have Marxian ideas been relevant or influential in the writing and interpretation of history what are the Marxist legacies that are now re emerging in present day histories this volume is an attempt at relearning what the discipline of history once knew whether one considered oneself a marxist a non marxist or an anti marxist in october 1934 the chinese communist army found itself facing annihilation surrounded by hundreds of thousands of nationalist soldiers rather than surrender 86 000 communists embarked on an epic flight to safety only thirty were women their trek would eventually cover 4 000 miles over 370 days under enemy fire they crossed highland awamps climbed tibetan peaks scrambled over chain bridges and trudged through the sands of the western deserts fewer than 10 000 of them would survive but remarkably all of the women would live to tell the tale unbound is an amazing story of love friendship and survival written by a new master of adventure narrative the long march was an extraordinary feat of human endurance lin wai a young doctor newly recruited into the red army is caught up in the breakout of the followers of mao and their ensuing flight the marchers struggle on through pain and suffering under continual harrassment from the enormously superior kuomintang forces through the blistering heat of the grasslands to the icy zub zero temperatures of the great snow mountain they march over a hundred thousand men begin the march only five thousand will survive a superbly illustrated and lavishly designed collector s treasure charting an epic triumph against the odds without parallel in modern history china s legendary long march history is marked by great moments of human achievement of epic triumph against all odds and china s long march was one of the most momentous for two years from 1934 to 1936 the red army retreated across the wilds of china battling nationalist forces and struggling to stay alive in impossibly harsh conditions of the 86 000 people who embarked on the 10 000 kilometre journey across the length and breadth of china less than 4000 survived it was a dramatic flight that turned almost certain defeat into victory setting in place the leadership tactics and spirit of the coming chinese revolution china the new long march revisits the original route of the long march and portrays the country today through the eyes of a celebrated team of chinese and international photographers their images capture the people and places of modern day china as it rushes into the 21st century while holding onto traditions from past centuries and honouring the spirit of the long march for over 75 years the chinese people have looked to the story of the long march for inspiration in somewhat the same way australians see gallipoli this unique and visually breathtaking insight into a country that has undergone monumental change over the past 75 years and an uplifting and at times moving portrait of the ordinary people adapting in the face of change this book is a collection of refereed invited papers on the history of computing from the 1940s to the 1990s with one paper going back to look at italian calculating computing machines from the first century to the 20th century the 22 papers cover a wide range of computing related topics such as specific early computer systems their construction their use and their users software programming and operating systems people involved in the theory design and use of these computers computer education and conservation of computing technology many of the authors were actually involved in the events they describe and share their specific reflections on the history of computing this fully revised new edition provides a definitive and holistic overview of transnational organized crime toc in a world in which right wing populism has gained ground trade wars are increasing climate change is a reality and covid poses a challenge for years to come updated to reflect the changing world environment the book includes new chapters on issues such as criminal network analysis environmental crime cybercrime people smuggling drugs activities in the modern world the relationship between organized crime and corruption anti organized crime resilience and the effectiveness of the fight against organized crime new country case studies have also been included the handbook is presented in six sections concepts theories and laws origins and manifestations contagion and evolution intensity and impact governance reaction and future truly interdisciplinary in nature the handbook features contributions from an international team of experts working in different academic disciplines and within varied law enforcement agencies it will appeal to scholars policymakers and practitioners in international law global governance international political economy and security studies the intersection between film stardom and politics is an understudied phenomenon of fascist italy despite the fact that the mussolini regime deemed stardom important enough to warrant sustained attention and interference focused on the period from the start of sound cinema to the final end of fascism in 1945 this book examines the development of an italian star system and evaluates its place in film production and distribution the performances and careers of several major stars including isa miranda vittorio de sica amedeo nazzari and alida valli are closely analyzed in terms of their relationships to the political sphere and broader commercial culture with consideration of their fates in the aftermath of fascism a final chapter explores the place of the stars in popular memory and representations of the fascist film world in postwar cinema the contributors to this volume assess the second berlusconi government its policies each title in this series examines a major historical watershed the books recount the chain of circumstances leading up to the event and the repercussions both intermediate and long term
