testing is one of the most controversial of all state and federal educational policies the effects of testing are quite ambiguous the same test may lead to different consequences in different circumstances and teachers may use very different strategies to prepare students for tests although most experts agree that mandatory testing leads to teaching to the test they disagree about whether it leads to meaningless drill wasted time de professionalizing teachers and demotivating students or to more challenging and thoughtful curricula more engaging teaching increased student motivation and increased accountability to help sort through this ambiguity and provide a firmer basis for decisions the ambiguity of teaching to the test standards assessment and educational reform offers a hard look at the effects of state testing and thoroughly examines the ambiguity of test preparation and how test preparation practices are influenced by what teachers know and the leadership coming from the school and district drawing on data from a three year study of new jersey s testing policy in elementary mathematics and science it helps to explain the variety of ways that teachers modify their teaching in response to state tests raises important questions and offers useful guidance on how state policymakers and local and district school administrators can implement policies that will improve educational equity and performance for all students it also offers an in depth analysis of classroom practices that should inform teachers and teacher educators whose goal is to meaningfully implement conceptually based teaching practices this comprehensive look at the statewide variation in testing practice features a data based non ideological treatment of how testing affects teachers in a field characterized by ideologically driven beliefs and by anecdotes an extensive and well integrated combination of qualitative and quantitative data sources that provide a statewide overview as well as an in depth analysis of teachers and classrooms a careful analysis of the variety of forms of teaching to the test and a multilevel exploration of how a variety of personal and leadership factors can influence teaching to the test this is an important book for researchers professionals and students in educational testing educational policy educational administration mathematics and science education educational reform and the politics and sociology of education it will also prove useful for state policymakers school and district leaders and teacher educators and curriculum specialists who are making decisions about how to design and respond to new testing systems

A New Model of Capital Asset Prices* *2017-04-06

this book proposes a new capital asset pricing model dubbed the zcapm that outperforms other popular models in empirical tests using us stock returns the zcapm is derived from fischer black's well known zero beta capm itself a more general form of the famous capital asset pricing model capm by 1990 nobel laureate william sharpe and others it is widely accepted that the capm has failed in its theoretical relation between market beta risk and average stock returns as numerous studies have shown that it does not work in the real world with empirical stock return data the upshot of the capm's failure is that many new factors have been proposed by researchers however the number of factors proposed by authors has steadily increased into the hundreds over the past three decades this new zcapm is a path breaking asset pricing model that is shown to outperform popular models currently in practice in finance across different test assets and time periods since asset pricing is central to the field of finance it can be broadly employed across many areas including investment analysis cost of equity analyses valuation corporate decision making pension portfolio management etc the zcapm represents a revolution in finance that proves the capm as conceived by sharpe and others is alive and well in a new form and will certainly be of interest to academics researchers students and professionals of finance investing and economics
