why do so many of our kids raised in the most affluent nation on earth fail to thrive and strive and enter adulthood lacking appropriate and effective coping skills drs swihart and cotter have come up with a revolutionary theory on why our kids are having such a tough time of it today it is because we allow our children to manipulate us and the world around them rather than teaching them how to respond to life and life's tough situations the result is that manipulative behavior is directly tied to low self esteem which only heightens its negative impact on kids families and the larger communities we live in the good news is that drs swihart and cotter have created a radical and clinically proven program for breaking manipulative behavior and getting our kids back on track the program teaches parents to say no without feeling guilt to resist the urge to feel responsible for their child's happiness to view their children as emotionally competent and resilient and most importantly to realize that effective parenting means allowing your child to make mistakes and develop a sense of competence which leads to enhanced self esteem and an ability to live independently and successfully in the real world drawing on their twenty five years in private practice the authors illustrate their program with examples of successful kids as well as case studies of how parents have regained control and effectively blocked their children's manipulative behavior the positive results will enlighten and even astound you and give you the tools needed to become a better parent from birth human beings are striving to make sense of the world they learn through interaction modelling first hand experience and independent action most children arrive at school with the notion that being independent and having the desire to take responsibility has been seen in their homes as a good thing however what often happens is that responsibility may be denied them in school and further bids for independence are viewed as negative behaviour this book argues that independence in the classroom should be seen as beneficial for learners and also for teachers jill williams makes a compelling case for a climate in which decision making is valued where children are enabled to solve problems and where children and adults respect each others point of view arguing that this will be a climate in which independence flourishes in turn the benefits in terms of teaching and learning will be apparent for both the children and the teachers the notion of independence in the classroom is explored through vivid cameos showing positive relationships between teachers and learners inspirational classroom organization and management and examples of children taking their learning forward in an environment where they have choices the careful monitoring assessment and discussion of teaching and learning which is presented highlights the benefits for both learners and teachers when there is a focus on independence
