in order for transparency measures to fight corruption they must be paired with enforcement levels of corruption vary greatly around the world with certain regions suffering from it more than others why is it pervasive in some countries how does it weaken critical regulations and why is it so hard to root out in the eye and the whip paul lagunes applies field experiments to analyze corruption in three countries mexico peru and the united states of america he begins by stressing that vulnerabilities to corruption exist where government officials hold power over both the provision of goods and the imposition of costs vulnerabilities turn to actual threats when officials calculate that the benefits of abusing their power are greater than the penalties associated with getting caught therefore controlling corruption requires increasing the probability of detecting malfeasance through enhanced monitoring what lagunes calls the testing and then applying the appropriate penalty in response to wrongdoing what he calls the whip however in the places where he conducts extensive fieldwork which include a city in central mexico urban districts in peru and two boroughs in new york city the common policy response to corruption typically emphasizes only the first of the two mechanisms from bribes extracted for public works contracts to property tax evasion corruption in these and other areas will persist as long as the authorities are unwilling to impose serious penalties after becoming aware of the problem after examining how corrupt transactions unfold and why corruption appears immune to transparency lagunes leverages local collaborations to test a series of approaches that help promote accountability offering rigorous evidence based recommendations for improving public administration the eye and the whip will be essential corruption has played a pivotal role in determining the current state of the world from mass testing poverty in developing countries to the destruction of natural resources and to the erosion of trust in political parties laurence cockcroft here argues that corruption has to be seen as the result of the interplay between elite embedded networks greed and organised crime he shows how the growth of corruption has been facilitated by globalisation the integration of new and expanding markets into the world economy and by the rapid expansion of offshore financial facilities these facilities provide a home to largely unregulated pools of finance derived from personal fortunes organised crime and pricing malpractice in international trade by identifying the main drivers of corruption world wide and analyzing the current action to control them this book suggests ways in which the problems caused by corruption can be addressed and ultimately prevented arequipa peru s second largest city has the most intense regional culture in the central andes arequipeños fiercely conceive of themselves as exceptional and distinctive yet also broadly representative of the nation s overall hybrid nature a blending of coast modern white and sierra traditional indigenous the independent republic of arequipa investigates why and how this regional identity developed in a boom of cultural production after the war of the pacific 1879 1884 through the mid twentieth century drawing on decades of ethnographic fieldwork thomas f love offers the first anthropological history of southwestern peru s distinctive regional culture he examines both its pre hispanic and colonial altiplano foundations anchored in continuing pilgrimage to key marian shrines and the nature of its mid nineteenth century revolutionary identity in cross class resistance to lima s autocratic control of nation building testing the post independence state love then examines arequipa s early twentieth century mestizo identity an early and unusual case of browning of regional identity in the context of raging debates about the national question and the indian problem as well as the post wwii development of extravagant displays of distinctive bull on bull fighting that now constitute the very performance of regional identity love s research reveals that arequipa s traditional local culture symbolically marked by populist secular and rural elements was in fact a project of urban based largely middle class cultural entrepreneurs invented to counter continuing limeño autocratic power marked by nostalgia and anxious about the inclusion of the nation s indigenous majority as full modern citizens elderly quechua mothers as they attempt to mourn and seek recognition for their kin of the estimated 16 000 peruvians disappeared during the conflict only the bodies of 3 202 victims have been located and only 1 833 identified the rest remain unknown or unfound scattered across the country and often shattered beyond recognition rojas perez examines how in the face of the state s failure to account for their missing dead the mothers rearrange senses of community belonging authority and the human to bring the disappeared back into being through everyday practices of mourning and memorialization mourning remains reveals how collective mourning becomes a political escape from the state s project of governing past peruvian foreign policy in the modern era is a chronological treatment of peruvian foreigntesting policy from 1990 to the present it focuses on the impact of domestic politics economic interests security concerns and alliance diplomacy on contemporary peruvian foreign policy in common with other latin american states sovereignty territorial integrity regionalism continental solidarity and economic independence were core goals of peruvian foreign policy after independence in modern times successive peruvian governments have continued to address these and related issues in a foreign policy grounded in pragmatism and notable for its emphasis on a rational combination of continuity and change the fujimori administration 1990 2000 set the stage for this shift in the direction tone and content of the nation s foreign policy with successor administrations refining and building upon the initiatives launched by fujimori
