A Civil War Pocket Reader 2003-05 by aug 1944 the allies had broken out of the normandy beachhead and were rapidly exploiting a breakthrough in the german lines in early aug hitler ordered a heavy single pronged attack to the west toward avranches to cut off the us forces to the south with the ultra intelligence bradley recognized this as an opportunity to encircle the german army in france by turning patton s third army in the south north towards argentan bradley formed the lower jaw of a pincer movement while montgomery ordered crerar s first canadian army south to push towards falaise to form the upper jaw connecting the allied armies between falaise and argentan would completely surround the german army the encirclement of the german forces would be known as the falaise pocket to the north montgomery s forces struggled to push south against the german defensive line patton s third army in concert with the xix tactical air command was making extremely rapid progress late on the 12th of aug bradley stopped patton s forces from moving north of argentan the decision to stop third army s movement north allowed many german personnel to escape from the falaise pocket i will analyze the leadership decisions command relationships and what i think to be a lack of communication between the allied leaders why did montgomery who was commander of the allied ground forces in france not close the pincer from the south why did bradley stop forces at argentan why didn t eisenhower get involved the allied leadership failed to capitalize or exploit the mistake made by hitler driving the german army westward by not closing the pocket s gap at falaise the allied forces lost an opportunity to destroy a large percentage of the enemy in france the major factor for this failure was conflicting commander personalities

The Cold War Explained: Pocket History for Kids 2019-03-06 pocket manuals bring together a wealth of information from a wide variety of training manuals and tactical documents between 1964 and 1975 2 6 million american personnel served within the borders of south vietnam during the vietnam war of whom an estimated 1 1 6 million actually fought in combat at the tip of the spear was the infantry the grunts who entered an extraordinary tropical combat zone completely alien to the world they had left behind in the united states in south vietnam and occasionally spilling over into neighboring laos and cambodia they fought a relentless counterinsurgency and conventional war against the north vietnamese army nva and viet cong vc the terrain was as challenging as the enemy soaring mountains or jungle choked valleys bleached sandy coastal zones major urban centers riverine districts their opponents fought them with relentless and terrible ingenuity with ambushes booby traps and mines then occasionally with full force offensives on a scale to rival the campaigns of world war ii this pocket manual draws its content not only from essential u s military field manuals of the vietnam era but also a vast collection of declassified primary documents including rare after action reports intelligence analysis firsthand accounts and combat studies through these documents the pocket manual provides a deep insight into what it was like for infantry to live survive and fight in vietnam whether conducting a major airmobile search and destroy operation or conducting endless hot and humid small unit patrols from jungle firebases the book includes infantry intelligence documents about the nva and vc threats plus chapters explaining hard won lessons about using weaponry surviving and moving through the jungle tactical maneuvers and applications of the ubiquitous helicopter for combat and support
