A Renaissance Architecture of Power 2010 the carthusian monks at san martino began a series of decorative campaigns in the 1580s that continued until 1757 transforming the church of their monastery the certosa di san martino into a jewel of marble revetment painting and sculpture the aesthetics of the church generate a jarring moral conflict few religious orders honored the ideals of poverty and simplicity so ardently yet decorated so sumptuously in this study nick napoli explores the terms of this conflict and of how it sought resolution amidst the social and economic realities and the political and religious culture of early modern naples napoli mines the documentary record of the decorative campaigns at san martino revealing the rich testimony it provides relating to both the monks and the artists expectations of how practice and payment should transpire from these documents the author delivers insight into the ethical and economic foundations of artistic practice in early modern naples the first english language study of a key monument in naples and the first to situate the complex within the cultural history of the city the ethics of ornament in early modern naples sheds new light on the neapolitan baroque industries of art in the age before capitalism and the relation of art architecture and ornament

La natura come amante 2019-11-15 demetrius of phalerum c 355 280bce of phalerum was a philosopher statesman he studied in the peripatos under theophrastus and subsequently used his political influence to help his teacher acquire property for the peripatetic school as overseer of athens his governance was characterized by a decade of domestic peace exiled to alexandria in egypt he became the adviser of ptolemy he is said to have been in charge of legislation and it is likely that he influenced the founding of the museum and the library this edition of the fragments of demetrius of phalerum reflects the growing interest in the hellenistic period and the philosophical schools of that age as a philosopher statesman demetrius appears to have combined theory and practice for example in the work on behalf of the politeia he almost certainly explained his own legislation and governance by appealing to the aristotelian notion of politeia that is a constitution in which democratic and oligarchic elements are combined in on peace he may have defended his subservience to macedon by appealing to aristotle who repeatedly recognized the importance of peace over war and in on fortune he will have followed theophrastus emphasizing the way fortune can determine the success or failure of sound policy whatever the case concerning any one title we can well understand why cicero regarded demetrius as a unique individual the educated statesman who was able to bring learning out of the shadows of erudition into the light of political conflict and that despite an oratorical style more suited to the shadows of the peripatos than to political combat the new edition of secondary reports by stork van ophuijsen and dorandi brings together the evidence for these and other judgments the facing translation which accompanies the greek and latin texts opens up the material to readers who lack the ancient languages and the accompanying essays introduce us to important issues the volume will be of interest to those interested in greek literature hellenistic philosophy hellenistic history and generally to persons captivated by the notion of philosopher statesman

Diplomacy and the Aristocracy as Patrons of Music and Theatre in the Europe of the Ancien Régime 2007-01-01 few other cities can compare with rome s history of continuous habitation nor with the survival of so many different epochs in its present this volume explores how the city s past has shaped the way in which rome has been built rebuilt represented and imagined throughout its history bringing together scholars from the disciplines of architectural history urban studies art history archaeology and film studies this book comprises a series of studies on the evolution of the city of rome and the ways in which it has represented and reconfigured itself from the medieval period to the present day moving from material appropriations such as spolia in the medieval period through the cartographic representations of the city in the early modern period to filmic representation in the twentieth century we encounter very different ways of making sense of the past across rome's historical spectrum the broad chronological arrangement of the chapters and the choice of themes and urban locations examined in each allows the reader to draw comparisons between historical periods an imaginative approach to the study of the urban and architectural make up of rome this volume will be valuable not only for historians of art and architecture but also for students of cultural history and film studies

Siena 2019-06-17 between the catastrophic flood of the tiber river in 1557 and the death of the engineering pope sixtus v in 1590 the city of rome was transformed by intense activity involving building construction and engineering projects of all kinds using hundreds of archival documents and primary sources engineering the eternal city explores the processes and people involved in these infrastructure projects sewers bridge repair flood prevention aqueduct construction the building of new straight streets and even the relocation of immensely heavy ancient egyptian obelisks that roman emperors had carried to the city centuries before this portrait of an early modern rome examines the many conflicts failures and successes that shaped the city as decision makers tried to control not only rome's structures and infrastructures but also the people who lived there taking up visual images of the city created during the same period most importantly in maps and urban representations this book shows how in a time before the development of modern professionalism and modern bureaucracies there was far more wide ranging conversation among people of various backgrounds on issues of engineering and infrastructure than there is in our own times physicians civic leaders jurists cardinals popes and clerics engaged with painters sculptors architects printers and other practitioners as they discussed argued and completed the projects that remade rome

The Ethics of Ornament in Early Modern Naples 2008, volume 2 of History of Construction Cultures, contains papers presented at the 7th International Congress on Construction History held at the Lisbon School of Architecture, Portugal, from 12 to 16 July 2021. The conference has been organized by the Lisbon School of Architecture, FAUL Nova School of Social Sciences and Humanities, the Portuguese Society for Construction History Studies, and the University of the Azores. The contributions cover the wide interdisciplinary spectrum of construction history and consist of the most recent advances in theory and practical case studies analysis following themes such as epistemological issues, building actors, building materials, building machines, tools, and equipment, construction processes, building services, and techniques, structural theory and analysis, political, social, and economic aspects, knowledge transfer, and cultural translation of construction cultures. Furthermore, papers presented at thematic sessions aim at covering important problematics, historical periods, and different regions of the globe, opening new directions for construction history research: we are what we build and how we build. Thus, the study of construction history is now more than ever at the centre of current debates as to the shape of a sustainable future for humankind. Therefore, history of construction cultures is a critical and indispensable work to expand our understanding of the ways in which everyday building activities have been perceived and experienced in different cultures from ancient times to our century and all over the world.
