a study of the attempted denazification of german music by the music control branch of the information control division of military government monod argues that the long term effects are greater than has been recognized as german officials regained control and limited their involvement in artistic life while promoting new anti nazi music disability inclusive development is an essential condition for a sustainable future in 2015 the united nations adopted the 2030 agenda for sustainable development pledging to leave no one behind in the global efforts to realize the 17 sustainable development goals without the world s one billion persons with disabilities 15 of the world population being included as both agents and beneficiaries of development these goals will never be achieved yet persons with disabilities are still invisible and often left behind this united nations flagship report is the first publication to address at the global level the nexus between disability and the sustainable development goals it is also the first global analysis based on an unprecedented amount of data legislation and policies from over 100 countries to understand the socio economic circumstances of persons with disabilities and the challenges and barriers they face in their daily lives this report examines new areas like the role of access to energy to enable persons with disabilities to use assistive technology for which no global research was previously available and explores the linkages between the sustainable development goals and the convention on the rights of persons with disabilities as well as other international relevant norms and standards relating to disability against the backdrop of all the available evidence the report identifies good practices and recommends urgent actions to be taken for the achievement of the sustainable development goals by for and with persons with disabilities the e book for this publication has been converted into an accessible format for the visually impaired and people with print reading disabilities it is fully compatible with leading screen reader technologies such as jaws and nvda locality history memory the making of the citizen in south asia was born out of the need to interrogate the tropes through which place history and memory underpin notions of citizenship in present southasia time as both time present and time past is framed here in two settings as privileging both place material or ideological site and space the latter refers to religion oppression marginalization and or dalitisation time transcends both site location and actual physical boundaries locality or location is therefore envisioned in terms of both actual place as well as a gateway to a larger space in terms of a situation where historical memory negotiates the increasingly complex present agency and contingency therefore assume a critical importance here citizenship far from being a discrete entity is found to be multidimensional it refers to formal status and the legal status of nationality and citizenship authenticated in the passport but it also refers to rights and privileges identity and solidarity religious beliefs and a sense of belonging moving away from the role of the state which has been at the centre of all inquiries on citizenship we ask here the following questions in locality history memory how does our history enforce or dilute the notion of the citizen how far does memory strengthen or weaken it what role does features not normally associated with citizenship such as access to natural resources or ritual faith and religion play in reinforcing such a status history in the end is written by the historian and it was easy to map the changing methodologies used by the historians to essay the past but this is becoming increasingly difficult now another twist is the shift to hypertext at a popular level echoing what the late e h carr had once called bringing more and more people into history these so called alternative histories or people s histories are becoming more and more popular because of the point at which we are located in time moreover devices afforded by the new media enable these alternative histories to have an immediacy that the conventional historical format lacked the collapse of state control over the new media has led to the resurgence of many archaic voices unimaginable just a decade ago this original and lively study is an analysis of the dynamics of british press reporting of india and the attempts made by the british government to
