is it possible to rethink the multilayered and polyvalent christology of the qur ān against the intersecting of competing peripheral christianities anti jewish christian polemics and the making of a new arab state in the 7th century near east to what extent may this help us to decipher moreover the intricate redactional process of the quranic corpus and can we unearth from any conclusions as to the tension between a messianic oriented and a prophetic guided religious thought buried in the document by analysing first the typology and plausible date of the jesus texts contained in the qur ān which implies moving far beyond both the habitual chronology of the qur ān and the common thematic division of the passages in question and by examining in the second place the qur ān s earliest christology via à vis its later and indeed much better known muhamadan kerygma the present study answers these crucial questions and thereby sheds new light on the qur ān s original sectarian milieu and pre canonical development cultural interaction in the middle east since the rise of islam such was the title of a combined research project of the universities of leiden and groningen aimed at describing the various ways in which the christian communities of the middle east expressed their distinct cultural identity in muslim societies as part of the project the symposium redefining christian identity christian cultural strategies since the rise of islam took place at groningen university on april 7 10 1999 this book contains the proceedings of this conference from the articles it becomes clear that a number of distinct cultural strategies can be identified some of which were used very frequently others only in certain groups or at particular periods of time the three main strategies that are represented in the papers of this volume are i reinterpretation of the pre islamic christian heritage ii inculturation of elements from the new islamic context iii isolation from the islamic context viewed in time it is clear that the reinterpretation of older christian heritage was particularly important in the first two centuries after the rise of islam the seventh and eighth centuries that inculturation was the dominant theme of the abbasid period in the ninth to twelfth centuries whereas from the mongol period onwards from the thirteenth to the eighteenth centuries isolation more and more often occurs although inculturation of elements from the predominantly muslim environment never came to a complete standstill from the first centuries of islam to well into the middle ages jews and christians produced hundreds of manuscripts containing portions of the bible in arabic until recently however these translations remained largely neglected by biblical scholars and historians in telling the story of the bible in arabic this book casts light on a crucial transition in the cultural and religious life of jews and christians in arabic speaking lands in pre islamic times jewish and christian scriptures circulated orally in the arabic speaking milieu after the rise of islam and the qur an s appearance as a scripture in its own right jews and christians translated the hebrew bible and the greek new testament into arabic for their own use and as a response to the qur an s retelling of biblical narratives from the ninth century onward a steady stream of jewish and christian translations of the hebrew bible and new testament crossed communal borders to influence the islamic world the bible in arabic offers a new frame of reference for the pivotal place of arabic bible translations in the religious and cultural interactions between jews christians and muslims in this book angelika neuwirth provides a new approach to understanding the founding text of islam typical exegesis of the qur an treats the text teleologically as a fait accompli finished text or as a replica or summary of the bible in arabic instead neuwirth approaches the qur an as the product of a specific community in the late antique arabian peninsula one which was exposed to the wider worlds of the byzantine and sasanian empires and to the rich intellectual traditions of rabbinic judaism early christianity and gnosticism a central goal of the book is to eliminate the notion of the qur an as being a historical she argues that it is in fact highly aware of its place in late antiquity and is capable of yielding valuable historical information by emphasizing the liturgical function of the qur an neuwirth allows readers to see the text as an evolving oral tradition within the community before it became collected and codified as a book this analysis sheds much needed light on the development of the qur an s historical theological and political outlook the book s final chapters analyze the relationship of the qur an to the bible to arabic poetic traditions and more generally to late antique culture and rhetorical forms by providing a new introduction to the qur an one that uniquely challenges current ideas about its emergence and development the qur an and late antiquity bridges the gap between eastern and western approaches to this sacred text still in its infancy because of the overly conservative views and methods assumed by the majority of scholars working in it since the mid 19th century the field of early islamic and quranic studies is one in which the very basic questions must nowadays be addressed with decision accordingly this book tries to resituate the qur ān at the crossroads of the conversations of old to which its parabiblical narratives witness and explores how muhammad s image which was apparently modelled after that of the anonymous prophet repeatedly alluded to in the qur ān originally matched that of other prophets and or charismatic figures distinctive in the late antique sectarian milieu out of which islam gradually emerged moreover it contends that the quranic noah narratives provide a first hand window into the making of muhammad as an eschatological prophet and further examines their form content purpose and sources as a means of deciphering the scribal and intertextual nature of the qur ān as well as the jewish christian background of the messianic controversy that gave birth to the new arab religion the previously neglected view that muhammad was once tentatively thought of as a new messiah challenges our common understanding of islam s origins
