this new study of american support to the regime of ngo dinh diem in south vietnam illuminates many contemporary events and foreign policies during the eisenhower and kennedy administrations the united states used foreign police and paramilitary assistance to combat the spread of communist revolution in the developing world this became the single largest internal security programme during the neglected 1955-1963 period yet despite presidential attention and a sustained campaign to transform diem's police and paramilitary forces into modern professional services the united states failed to achieve its objectives given the scale of its efforts and the diem regime's importance to the us leadership this text identifies the three key factors that contributed to the failure of american policy first the competing conceptions of diem's civilian and military advisers second the reforms advanced by us police training personnel were also at odds with the political agenda of the south vietnamese leader finally the flawed beliefs among us police advisers based on the universality of american democracy this study also shows how notions borrowed from academic social science of the time became the basis for building diem's internal security forces this book will be of great interest to all students and scholars of intelligence studies cold war studies security studies us foreign policy and the vietnam war in general by the end of the american war in vietnam the coastal province of phú yên was one of the least secure provinces in the republic of vietnam it was also a prominent target of the american strategy of pacification an effort purportedly separate and distinct from conventional warfare to win the hearts and minds of the vietnamese in robert j thompson iii's analysis the consistent and consistently unsuccessful struggle to place phú yên under saigon's banner makes the province particularly fertile ground for studying how the americans advanced pacification and why this effort ultimately failed in march 1970 a disastrous military engagement began in phú yên revealing the enemy's continued presence after more than three years of pacification clear hold and destroy provides a fresh perspective on the war across multiple levels from those making and implementing policy to those affected by it most pointedly thompson contends that pacification far from existing apart from conventional warfare actually depended on conventional military forces for its application his study reaches back into phú yên's storied history with pacification before and during the french colonial period then focuses on the province from the onset of the american war in 1965 to its conclusion in 1975 a sharply focused fine grained analysis of one critical province during the vietnam war thompson's work demonstrates how pacification is better understood as the foundation of u s fighting in vietnam
