Strategic Management of Global Manufacturing Networks 2014-07-08 how to design a world in which we rely less on stuff and more on people we re filling up the world with technology and devices but we ve lost sight of an important question what is this stuff for what value does it add to our lives so asks author john thackara in his new book in the bubble designing for a complex world these are tough questions for the pushers of technology to answer our economic system is centered on technology so it would be no small matter if tech ceased to be an end in itself in our daily lives technology is not going to go away but the time to discuss the end it will serve is before we deploy it not after we need to ask what purpose will be served by the broadband communications smart materials wearable computing and connected appliances that we re unleashing upon the world we need to ask what impact all this stuff will have on our daily lives who will look after it and how in the bubble is about a world based less on stuff and more on people thackara describes a transformation that is taking place now not in a remote science fiction future it s not about as he puts it the schlock of the new but about radical innovation already emerging in daily life we are regaining respect for what people can do that technology can t in the bubble describes services designed to help people carry out daily activities in new ways many of these services involve technology ranging from body implants to wide bodied jets but objects and systems play a supporting role in a people centered world the design focus is on services not things and new principles above all lightness inform the way these services are designed and used at the heart of in the bubble is a belief informed by a wealth of real world examples that ethics and responsibility can inform design decisions without impeding social and technical innovation

Guide to Management Ideas and Gurus 2008-09-01 release reputation bearers from the burden of being constantly mo tored and reduce the likelihood of government or public supervision and control strengthen client trust ease the recruitment and retention of capable employees and improve access to capital markets or attract investors legitimate positions of power and build up reserves of trust which lowed companies and politicians but also researchers and journalists to put their issues on the public agenda present them credibly and mould them in their own interests but a fear of loss is not the only reason for the steadily increasing portance of reputation in corporate management today or more especially in the minds of top management rather the main reason is that corporate reputation has shifted from being an unquantifiable soft factor to a measurable indicator in the sense of management control and it is a variable that is obviously relevant to a company's performance recent studies by the european centre for reputation studies and the ludwig maximilians universität of munich compared the stock market performance of a portfolio of the top 25 of reputation leaders based on regular reputation measurements in the wider public with that of the german dax 30 stock market index the results show that a portfolio consisting of reputation leaders 1 outperformed the stock market index by up to 45 and with less risk fig 1 performance of reputation portfolios vs
