unlike many other trans boundary policy areas international migration lacks coherent global governance there is no un migration organization and states have signed relatively few multilateral treaties on migration instead sovereign states generally decide their own immigration policies however given the growing politicisation of migration and the recognition that states cannot always address migration in isolation from one another a debate has emerged about what type of international institutions and cooperation are required to meet the challenges of international migration until now though that emerging debate on global migration governance has lacked a clear analytical understanding of what global migration governance actually is the politics underlying it and the basis on which we can make claims about what better migration governance might look like in order to address this gap the book brings together a group of the world s leading experts on migration to consider the global governance of different aspects of migration the chapters offer an accessible introduction to the global governance of low skilled labour migration high skilled labour migration irregular migration lifestyle migration international travel refugees internally displaced persons human trafficking and smuggling diaspora remittances and root causes each of the chapters explores the three same broad questions what institutionally is the global governance of migration in that area why politically does that type of governance exist how normatively can we ground claims about the type of global governance that should exist in that area collectively the chapters enhance our understanding of the international politics of migration and set out a vision for international cooperation on migration
