this book focuses on the exchange rate pass through erpt second round effects and the inflation process in south africa the authors demonstrate that magnitudes of the second round effects of the exchange rate depreciation and oil price shocks depend on inflation regimes the impact of positive oil price shocks on inflation is weakened by monetary policy credibility evidence shows the influence of oil price on unit labour costs and correlation between exchange rate changes and inflation has weakened in addition erpt is reduced by low business and consumer confidence high trade openness low inflation and high exchange rate volatility which weaken real economic activity both monetary and fiscal policy credibility lowers the sizes of erpt to inflation and inflation expectations fiscal policy via fuel levies administered prices and public transport inflation channel impacts the responses of monetary policy to inflation shocks the authors show that second round effects contribute very little to wage inflation following an exchange rate depreciation shock both lending rate and household consumption responds asymmetrical to repo rate changes this book will appeal to policymakers students academics and analysts for a long time economic research on africa was not seen as a profitable venture intellectually or professionally few researchers in top ranked institutions around the world chose to become experts in the field this was understandable the reputation of africa centered economic research was not enhanced by the well known limitations of economic data across the continent moreover development economics itself was not always fashionable and the broader discipline of economics has had its ups and downs and has been undergoing a major identity crisis because it failed to predict the great recession times have changed many leading researchers including a few nobel laureates have taken the subject of africa and economics seriously enough to devote their expertise and creativity to it they have been amply rewarded the richness complexities and subtleties of african societies civilizations rationalities and ways of living have helped renew the humanities and the social sciences and economics in particular to the point that the continent has become the next major intellectual frontier to researchers from around the world in collecting some of the most authoritative statements about the science of economics and its concepts in the african context this handbook the first of two volumes opens up the diverse acuity of commentary on exciting topics and in the process challenges and stimulates the quest for knowledge wide ranging in its scope themes language and approaches this volume explores examines and assesses economic thinking on africa and africa s contribution to the discipline the editors bring a set of powerful resources to this endeavor most notably a team of internationally renowned economists whose diverse viewpoints are complemented by the perspectives of philosophers political scientists and anthropologists the set of analyses and reflections presented here try to endow each subject with depth and discovery a valuable corrective to the fraying narrative of african failure foreign affairs not so long ago africa was being described as the hopeless continent recently though talk has turned to africa rising with enthusiastic voices exclaiming the potential for economic growth across many of its countries what then is the truth behind africa s growth or lack of it in this provocative book morten jerven fundamentally reframes the debate challenging mainstream accounts of african economic history whilst for the past two decades experts have focused on explaining why there has been a chronic failure of growth in africa jerven shows that most african economies have been growing at a rapid pace since the mid nineties in addition african economies grew rapidly in the fifties the sixties and even into the seventies thus african states were dismissed as incapable of development based largely on observations made during the 1980s and early 1990s the result has been misguided analysis and few practical lessons learned this is an essential account of the real impact economic growth has had on africa and what it means for the continent s future

An Introduction to Economics for East Africa 1968 while sharing some characteristics with other middle income countries south africa is a country with a unique economic history and distinctive economic features it is a regional economic powerhouse that plays a significant role not only in southern africa and in the continent but also as a member of brics however there has been a lack of structural transformation and weak economic growth and south africa faces the profound triple challenges of poverty inequality and unemployment any meaningful debate about economic policies to address these challenges needs to be informed by a deep understanding of historical developments robust empirical evidence and rigorous analysis of south africa s complex economic landscape this volume seeks to provide a wide ranging set of original detailed and state of the art analytical perspectives that contribute to scientific knowledge as well as to well informed and productive discourse on the south african economy while concentrating on the more recent economic issues facing south africa the handbook also provides historical and political context it offers an in depth examination of strategic issues in the country s key economic sectors and brings together diverse analytical perspectives over the past 20 years the global political economy has experienced its most profound shifts since the onset of the industrial revolution in south africa and the world mills soko reflects on some of the salient issues that have pervaded public discourse during this time analysing them within the context of the contemporary south african political economy and of the country s position in the world arranged thematically the essays were all written during a defining period in recent history a period that has witnessed among others the accession of china to the wto the 9 11 terrorist attacks on the us the invention of the ipad the birth of facebook the 2008 9 global financial crisis brexit and the global coronavirus pandemic which began at the end of 2019 the turbulent multipolar world demands visionary political and economic leadership supported by institutions well attuned to contemporary conditions such leadership is in short supply nor is the existing institutional architecture sufficiently equipped to deal with a complex array of economic social environmental technological and demographic challenges mills soko highlights what has not worked in terms of politics leadership foreign policy the economy the african development trajectory corporate ethics international trade global governance and the thread which underlies all these issues the importance of strong decisive and accountable leadership he counters his criticism with what has worked and offers views on how some of the problems that have constrained progress in south africa and the world can be solved a central message emerges from his writings leadership and governance matter whether in the national or international context it is a message that permeates all the chapters in the book and it goes to the heart of what south africa has gone through over the past two decades and where it is today

this book examines the dynamics in capital flows credit markets and growth in south africa the authors explore the role of global economic growth policy shifts and various economic policy uncertainties central banks in advanced economies are engaged in unconventional monetary policy tools such as balance sheet policies negative interest rates and extended forward guidance to assist them to meet their price financial and macro economic stability objectives this book determines whether brics gdp growth is a source of shocks or an amplifier of global growth shocks the authors find that global economic growth and policy uncertainty reinforce each other via capital flows credit conditions and business confidence on the domestic economy furthermore they demonstrate that there is momentum in the changes in the spread between the repo rate and federal funds rate in addition global real policy rates impact domestic gdp growth and labor market conditions the authors examine the economic costs of capital flow surges sudden stops and elevated portfolio volatility shocks and their interaction with gdp growth and credit they show that equity and debt inflows matter in the attainment of the price stability mandate moreover business confidence transmits sovereign credit ratings upgrades and downgrades shocks to the real economy via gdp growth the cost of government debt and borrowing to impact credit growth high gdp growth increases the likelihood of sovereign credit ratings upgrades hence policymakers should implement pro growth policies inflation regimes impact the transmission of positive nominal demand shocks to the price level low and stable inflation inflation below 4 5 per cent reduces the pass through of positive nominal demand shocks to inflation universities and economic development in africa pact academic core and coordination draws together evidence and synthesises the findings from eight african case studies the three key findings presented in this report are as follows 1 there is a lack of clarity and agreement pact about a development model and the role of higher education in development at both national and institutional levels there is however an increasing awareness particularly at government level of the importance of universities in the global context of the knowledge economy 2 research production at the eight african universities is not strong enough to enable them to build on their traditional undergraduate teaching roles and make a sustained contribution to development via new knowledge production a number of universities have manageable student staff ratios and adequately qualified staff but inadequate funds for staff to engage in research in addition the incentive regimes do not support knowledge production 3 in none of the countries in the sample is there a coordinated effort between government external stakeholders and the university to systematically strengthen the contribution that the university can make to development while at each of the universities there are exemplary development projects that connect strongly to external stakeholders and strengthen the academic core the challenge is how to increase the number of these projects the project on which this report is based forms part of a larger study on higher education and economic development in africa undertaken by the higher education research and advocacy network in africa herana herana is coordinated by the centre for higher education transformation in south africa in the universally acclaimed and award winning the bottom billion paul collier reveals that fifty failed states home to the poorest one billion people on earth pose the central challenge of the developing world in the twenty first century the book shines much needed light on this group of small nations largely unnoticed by the industrialized west that are dropping further and further behind the majority of the world's people often falling into an absolute decline in living standards a struggle rages within each of these nations between reformers and corrupt leaders and the corrupt are winning collier analyzes the causes of failure pointing to a set of traps that ensnare these countries including civil war a dependence on the extraction and export of natural resources and bad governance standard solutions do not work he writes aid is often ineffective and globalization can actually make matters worse driving development to more stable nations what the bottom billion need collier argues is a bold new plan supported by the group of eight industrialized nations if failed states are ever to be helped the g8 will have to adopt preferential trade policies new laws against corruption new international charters and even conduct carefully calibrated military interventions collier has spent a lifetime working to end global poverty in the bottom billion he offers real hope for solving one of the great humanitarian crises facing the world today set to become a classic crammed with statistical nuggets and common sense his book should be compulsory reading the economist if sachs seems too saintly and easterly too cynical then collier is the authentic old africa hand he knows the terrain and has a keen ear if you ve ever found yourself on one side or the other of those arguments and who hasn t then you simply must read this book niall ferguson the new york times book review rich in both analysis and recommendations read this book you will learn much you do not know it will also change the way you look at the tragedy of persistent poverty in a world of plenty financial times this book explains why african countries have remained mired in a disastrous economic crisis since the late 1970s it shows that dynamics internal to african state structures largely explain this failure to overcome economic difficulties rather than external pressures on these same structures as is often argued far from being prevented from undertaking reforms by societal interest and pressure groups clientelism within the state elite ideological factors and low state capacity have resulted in some limited reform but much prevarication and manipulation of the reform process by governments which do not really believe that reform will be effective

Economic and Management Sciences, Grade 9 2015-05-29 this book is a useful resource for government policy analysts academics students of higher education and business practitioners interested in african economies and the key economic issues these economies are facing in 2020 in the face of weak governance and growth globally there is still a window of opportunity for countries in africa to build on not only their traditional industrial capabilities but also pave the way for positive developments in international trade and in the way governments tackle poverty and inequality by focusing on four areas 1 agriculture and livestock 2 consumption poverty and inequality 3 financial services employment and corporate governance and 4 economic integration international trade and foreign direct investment fdi this book presents a series of empirical studies that examine important contemporary economic issues facing africa the book incorporates a range of methodological approaches with some chapters providing case study analyses while others embrace more traditional forms of econometric testing

Economics for Eastern Africa 1980 development largely depends on how given places participate in global economic processes the contributions to this book address various features of the integration of sub saharan africa into the world economy via value chains so as to explain corresponding challenges and opportunities the book deals with five issues that have not been covered adequately in scientific debates first policies are essential to promote value chains and increase their impact on development second value chains are diverse and the variance between them has major economic and political implications third regional value chains appear to constitute a viable alternative to global ones or at least are complementary to them promising better developmental outcomes for the global south fourth political and socio economic factors are important considerations for a complete assessment of value chains fifth cities and city regions are also crucial objects of study in seeking to achieve a comprehensive assessment of value chains
