The Illegal City 2016-03-03 the illegal city explores the relationship between space law and gendered subjectivity through a close look at an illegal squatter settlement in delhi since 2000 a series of judicial rulings in india have criminalised squatters as illegal citizens encroachers and pickpockets of urban land and have led to a spate of slum demolitions across the country this book argues that in this context it has become vital to distinguish between illegality and informality since it is those illegal slums which are at the receiving end of a force of law where law is violently encountered within everyday spaces this book uses a gendered intersectional lens to explore how a violence of law shapes how public subjectivities of gender class religion and caste are encountered and negotiated within the private spaces of home family and neighbourhood this book suggests that resettlement is not a condition that squatters desire rather something that is seen as the only way out of the illegal city the wait for resettlement is a temporal space of anxiety and uncertainty where particular kinds of politics around law space and gender takes shape which transform squatters relations with the state urban development civil society and with each other through their everyday struggles around water sanitation social and political organisation and the transformation of their homes and families this book shows that the desire for the legal city is also the irony and utopia of home which will remain an incomplete gendered project both for the state and for squatters
