Design as an Attitude 2022 pictorial reconstructions of ancient human ancestors have twin purposes to make sense of shared ancestry and to bring prehistory to life stephanie moser analyzes the close relationship between representations of the past and theories about human evolution showing how this relationship existed even before a scientific understanding of human origins developed how did mythological religious and historically inspired visions of the past in existence for centuries shape this understanding moser treats images as primary documents and her book is lavishly illustrated with engravings paintings photographs and reconstructions in surveying the iconography of prehistory moser explores visions of human creation from their origins in classical early christian and medieval periods through traditions of representation initiated in the renaissance she looks closely at the first scientific reconstructions of the nineteenth century which dramatized and made comprehensible the darwinian theory of human descent from apes she considers as well the impact of reconstructions on popular literature in europe and north america showing that early visualizations of prehistory retained a firm hold on the imagination a hold that archaeologists and anthropologists have found difficult to shake

Ancestral Images 2018-09-05 this is the first book to provide a systematic overview of social zooarchaeology which takes a holistic view of human animal relations in the past until recently archaeological analysis of faunal evidence has primarily focused on the role of animals in the human diet and subsistence economy this book however argues that animals have always played many more roles in human societies as wealth companions spirit helpers sacrificial victims totems centerpieces of feasts objects of taboos and more these social factors are as significant as taphonomic processes in shaping animal bone assemblages nerissa russell uses evidence derived from not only zooarchaeology but also ethnography history and classical studies to suggest the range of human animal relationships and to examine their importance in human society through exploring the significance of animals to ancient humans this book provides a richer picture of past societies

TROPICAL ANIMAL 2006-01-11 how do children construct negotiate and organize space the study of social space in any human group is fraught with limitations and to these we must add the further limits involved in the study of childhood here specialists from archaeology history literature architecture didactics museology and anthropology build a body of theoretical and methodological approaches about how space is articulated and organized around children and how this disposition affects the creation and maintenance of social identities children are considered as the main actors in historic dynamics of social change from prehistory to the present day notions on space childhood and the construction of both the individual and the group identity of children are considered as a prelude to papers that focus on analyzing and identifying the spaces which contribute to the construction of children s identity during their lives the places they live learn socialize and play a final section deals with these same aspects but focuses on funerary contexts in which children may lose their capacity to influence events as it is adults who establish burial strategies and practices in each case authors ask questions such as how do adults construct spaces for children how do children manage their own spaces how do people adults and children build invisible and or physical boundaries and spaces
