Kinship in Old Norse Myth and Legend

2013-07-31

the main aim of this book is to discuss various modes of studying and defining the medieval self based on a wide span of sources from medieval western scandinavia c 800 1500 such as archeological evidence architecture and art documents literature and runic inscriptions the book engages with major theoretical discussions within the humanities and social sciences such as cultural theory practice theory and cognitive theory the authors investigate how the various approaches to the self influence our own scholarly mindsets and horizons and how they condition what aspects of the medieval self are visible to us utilizing this insight we aim to propose a more syncretic approach towards the medieval self not in order to substitute excellent models already in existence but in order to foreground the flexibility and the complementarity of the current theories when these are seen in relationship to each other the self and how it relates to its surrounding world and history is a main concern of humanities and social sciences focusing on the theoretical and methodological flexibility when approaching the medieval self has the potential to raise our awareness of our own position and agency in various social spaces today in stay black and die i augustus durham examines melancholy and genius in black culture letters and media from the nineteenth century to the contemporary moment drawing on psychoanalysis affect theory and black studies durham explores the black mother as both a lost object and a found subject often obscured when constituting a cultural legacy of genius across history he analyzes the works of frederick douglass ralph ellison marvin gaye octavia e butler and kendrick lamar to show how black cultural practices and aesthetics abstract and reveal the lost mother through performance whether attributing douglass s intellect to his matrilineage reading gaye s falsetto singing voice as a move to interpolate black female vocality or examining the women in ellison s life who encouraged his aesthetic interests durham demonstrates that melancholy becomes the catalyst for genius and genius in turn is a signifier of the maternal using psychoanalysis to develop a theory of racial melancholy while playing with affect theory to investigate racial aesthetics durham theorizes the role of the feminine especially the black maternal in the production of black masculinist genius
