Regional integration : what in it for CARICOM ? (Working Paper ITD = Documento de Trabajo ITD; 29) 2022-11-16 economic and political integration have been a perennial and neuralgic issue in the caribbean agenda this paper draws on the literature on trade growth and regional agreements to discuss the motivation behind the caribbean drive for integration the results obtained so far and what is in stock for the future it argues with the help of descriptive statistics an empirical growth model and a gravity model that the traditional trade related gains from regional integration have been and are bound to be limited because of i the countries high openness ii the limited size of the common enlarged market and iii the countries relatively similar factor endowments it also argues though that gains in the area of non tradables due to economies of scale which cannot be mitigated by trade and openness can be substantial

The New Dimensions in Learning English Iv' 2003 Ed. 2016-05-31 a little creative ingenuity and willingness to experiment are all it takes to break out of the confines of routine and inject a little variety into your classroom the games in this book are designed to be adaptable to different levels of study of english literature some are more likely to appeal more to a level students than to undergraduates and vice versa they draw on a common stock of materials that can be bought and adapted at little cost and in some cases they map directly onto the kind of questions that typically get asked when students face assessment many of the games can be played without a teacher being present although many also assume that someone will be there to draw together threads of discussion if nothing else these games are a great way of overcoming that horrible problem the wall of silence that confronts every teacher of literature at some stage in his or her career the games are divided into different categories reflecting the way literature students have to move between detailed analysis and general evaluation they start small with games about words and images and build towards the more challenging theoretical topics students might encounter in the study of literary theory overall this book is conceived as a provocation not an encyclopaedia if the result is that readers go away and dream up more and better games to play with students of literature history sociology law or any other discipline involving the close study and theorization of texts it will have served its purpose with new trends emerging new talents making their mark new creative and critical branches sprouting in various directions as well as with the thematic varieties technical experiments and linguistic innovations it is now god s plenty the extraordinary richness and variety of indian writing today indeed pose a challenging task for any critic or anthologist in the area since it has become next to impossible to give any comprehensive view or idea of this fast growing literature in its totality within the compass of a single volume still it remains the critic s responsibility as well as pleasure to find the new authors and texts side by side with the older and already canonized ones as robert kroetsch the canadian author says we want the critic to find us out our indian authors today also should legitimately expect the perceptive responsive critic to find them out it is especially needed in the present case since the indian writers in english are still engaged in the process of writing from outside the mainstream and therefore are in serious need of the right critical attention and understanding it is precisely this situation that has been kept in view in compiling the present anthology of a bunch of critical essays on a cross section of indian fiction poetry and drama in english quite a number of the texts discussed in this volume have been written in recent years whereas a few earlier texts m r anand s for example have also been included in order to help the reader to view the spectrum in a total perspective the critical range of this volume includes mulk raj anand khushwant singh ruth jhabvala anita desai manju kapur amitav ghosh in fiction a k ramanujan nissim ezeziel kamala das in poetry girish karnad s tuglaq and hayavadana in drama the articles included in the present volume will allow us a glimpse into some of the representative authors texts and trends students teachers scholars as well as the common reader will find the book useful and interesting

Notebook for English : Dark Blue 2015-10-29 this book is a result of the investigative attempts of linguistics professionals to identify and meet the challenges of developing communicative competence in future engineers economists and other such specialists the unifying feature of all the contributions brought together here is the active involvement of the authors in practical instruction of english for specific professional purposes at the tertiary bachelors and masters programs level in russia this volume covers a number of relevant areas in this field including new developments in methodology approaches to course and materials design and the contribution of language theory to foreign language teaching in a professional context the unique teaching approach advocated in this book denounces the traditional practice of transferring classical methodology of communicative oriented teaching to language classes for students with a non linguistic or non teaching professional orientation the underlying idea of this volume is that a change in professional context implies a change in language teaching methodology including materials techniques and target competences the ideas and experiences analysed here will appeal to anyone interested in the current trends in foreign language teaching and learning and particularly to educationalists

Action Research into Teaching English in Russia's Professional Context 1997 blanks print space and void in english renaissance literature is an inquiry into the empty spaces encountered not just on the pages of printed books in c 1500 1700 but in renaissance culture more generally the book argues that print culture in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries helped to foster the modern idea of the gap where words texts images and ideas are constructed as missing lost withheld fragmented or perhaps never devised in the first place it re imagines how early modern people reacted not just to printed books and documents of many different kinds but also how the very idea of emptiness or absence began to be fashioned in a way which still surrounds us jonathan sawday leads the reader through the entire landscape of early modern print culture discussing topics such as space and silence the exploration of the vacuum the ways in which race and racial identity in early modern england were constructed by the language and technology of print blackness and whiteness together with lightness darkness and sightlessness cartography and emptiness the effect of typography on reading practices the social spaces of the page gendered surfaces hierarchies of information books of memory pages constructed as waste or vacant the genesis of blank forms and early modern bureaucracy the political and devotional spaces of printed books the impact of censorship and the problem posed by texts which lack endings or conclusions the book itself ends by dwelling on blank or empty pages as a sign of human mortality sawday pays close attention to the writings of many of the familiar figures in english renaissance literary culture sidney shakespeare donne jonson and milton for example as well as introducing readers to a host of lesser known figures the book also discusses the work of numerous women writers from the period including aphra behn ann bradstreet margaret cavendish lady jane gray lucy hutchinson Æmelia lanyer isabella whitney and lady mary wroth
