the traumas of the twentieth century as ebenezer recalls both the men lost to the great war and the german occupation of guernsey during world war ii and looks with despair at the encroachments of commerce and tourism on his beloved island g b edwards labored in obscurity all his life and completed the book of ebenezer le page shortly before his death published posthumously the book is a triumph of the storyteller s art that conjures up the extraordinary voice of a living man murder mystery and romance it's got it all the third in the guernsey novels series likely to appeal to fans of the best selling book the guernsey literary and potato peel pie society two violent deaths separated by time but with a fatal connection a man loses his father a young woman loses her mother both in tragic circumstances that lead when they meet to surprising revelations from the past louisa needs to find the father she has never known to warn him of possible danger for them both her search takes her from england to guernsey malcolm's journey is more complicated conceived in guernsey his bereaved mother emigrates with him to canada many years later he arrives in india and from here he is led back to guernsey to open a health centre at la folie this was his father's home and where he was killed at the start of the second world war at the heart of the two deaths lie stolen jewels valuable enough to kill for twice finding her father brings louisa more than she bargains for and her life is transformed while malcolm learns that life is after all for sharing book review i regard anne allen's guernsey novels as an indulgent treat they're seriously easy to read with some great characters and a brilliant island location which is used to full advantage you really feel as though you're there allen has a subtle insight into the dynamics of dysfunctional families the ones with quirks in their history and the independent people they give birth to she doesn't fall into the obvious trap of creating unhappiness within the families both malcolm and louisa loved their mothers dearly and grew to be strong people themselves the hint that their upbringing has left its mark is shown by the fact that malcolm has never married and louisa finds it difficult to believe that the man who has stolen her heart the manager of malcolm's health spa could reciprocate her feelings there's a neat mirroring of circumstances with both malcolm and louisa having a parent killed in the search for the jewels there's considerable insight too in the relationship between malcolm and louisa louisa has always known that she had a father but malcolm knew nothing of the existence of louisa until he was confronted by her there's a wariness on both sides at first followed by a steady growth of affection rather than insta love and it's a relationship you can believe in whenever i read one of anne allen's books i'm always disappointed when i turn the final page the books lift me out of reality and whisk me away to somewhere warm and comfortable
