nov 29 2022 messages 3 reaction score 0 location texas country united states dec 3 2022 1 i purchased the viofo t130 for my bmw x3 m40i and want to know the best and easiest way to route the cables without them interfering with the airbags i was looking at this quick video help with mcam x3 wire ok well i have been using mastercam 9 1 for milling and x3 for wire i can get by with doing 2d wire programs but i recently got a job where i need to edm a drafted surface with 2 teeth i can supply an altered file for someone to look at basically it is a gripper for bottles i can program it ok in 2d but it does not connect the positive cable of your radar hardwire kit to the fuse tap terminal remove the 10mm hex nut in front of the fuse box right next to the airbag connect your negative terminal from the hardwire kit to it and reinstall the 10mm hex nut it should look similar to this at this point switch on the ignition again connect the hardwire hi all after fitting a 10 25 android screen to my f25 x3 i have purchased a aftermarket front view camera very easy to fit and will be extremely easy to install except for one problem i need to get the cable through the firewall into the engine compartment and i cannot see an obvious location to do that does anybody have any experience of do the wire from the v1 runs up to the headliner then over to the a pillar and down all the way to the savvy its all tucked behind the headliner and behind the side panels on the a pillar once it got to the a pillar from the v1 i ran it across the short portion to the outside of the side panel and tucked it behind the panels all the way mastercam x3 wire getting startedgetting started with toolpath creation 9 mastercam wire the gear shape is the single contour for this toolpath mastercam wire
