a thought provoking examination of how public education systems can be strengthened through strategic relationships both within schools and with outside partners in democracy and reform in public schools saul rubinstein charles heckscher and john mccarthy apply their expertise in labor relations to public school reform they envision a model of k 12 education that shifts away from the tenets of neoliberalism and centers on productive collaboration among school boards school administrators teacher unions and other education stakeholders providing evidence of the links between collaborative partnerships and improved student outcomes rubinstein heckscher and mccarthy build on a rich body of research on interorganizational cooperation they highlight case studies such as that of the new jersey public school labor management collaborative as leading examples of how better student performance more intra district learning and innovation and reduced teacher turnover can be traced to greater educator collaboration citing examples not only from the k 12 educational sector but also from successful union management partnerships in the automobile steel and telecommunications industries they then identify proven strategies to foster collaborative partnerships at district state and national levels they discuss techniques for forging new partnerships sustaining collaborative efforts and expanding the collaborative partnership model to larger scales this work expertly demonstrates how employment relations practices are antecedents to whole system reform in schools organizing for competitive advantage and profit how can businesses best tap diverse capabilities to generate new ideas manufacture products and properly execute strategy in this groundbreaking thoroughly researched book organizational expert charles heckscher argues that in a global network of creation and production the dominant organizations will be those that master the still uncoded skills of collaboration replacing the giants of the past century who thrived on the mastery of bureaucratic systems though there has been much discussion of teamwork and alliances in recent decades heckscher argues that we are still a long way from fully understanding how to manage fluid and inconstant collaborations and that this is an area dominated far more by rhetoric than reality using a combination of theory and extensive real life case studies heckscher pushes the boundary of organization design and illustrates how companies are able to create new effective patterns of interactions and how they can build a culture and infrastructure necessary to support them for organizational leaders in search of long term competitive advantage the collaborative enterprise offers sound research findings and invaluable insights a new explanation of the relation between schooling and work in the democratic advanced industrial state emerges from this study that rejects both traditional views and the more recent marxian perspective traditional views consider schools as autonomous institutions that are able to pursue the goals of equality and social mobility irrespective of the inequalities of capitalist society the marxian perspective views schools as serving the role of producing wage labor for capitalistic exploitation the authors suggest that the shortcomings of both views are rooted in the fact that they do not recognize the true functions of the democratic capitalist state the state is seen as an arena for struggle between forces pushing for egalitarian democratic reforms and those seeking to use the resources of the state for private capital accumulation depending on which side has primacy at the moment schools will reflect one set of goals over the other however victory is never complete and the tide of battle has shifted back and forth historically the authors develop this theory through interpreting the dynamic relation between u s schools and the workplace based on this approach they predict changes in both schooling and work as well as the forms that future conflicts between the contending forces are likely to take
