pain is one of medicine s greatest mysteries when farmer john mitson caught his hand in a baler he cut off his trapped hand and carried it to a neighbor sheer survival and logic was how he described it and strangely i didn t feel any pain how can this be we re taught that pain is a warning message to be heeded at all costs yet it can switch off in the most agonizing circumstances or switch on for no apparent reason many scientists philosophers and laypeople imagine pain to operate like a rigid simple signaling system as if a particular injury generates a fixed amount of pain that simply gets transmitted to the brain yet this mechanistic model is woefully lacking in the face of the surprising facts about what people and animals do and experience when their bodies are damaged patrick wall looks at these questions and sets his scientific account in a broad context interweaving it with a wealth of fascinating and sometimes disturbing historical detail such as famous characters who derived pleasure from pain the unexpected reactions of injured people the role of endorphins and the power of placebo he covers cures of pain ranging from drugs and surgery through relaxation techniques and exercise to acupuncture electrical nerve stimulation and herbalism pain involves our state of mind our social mores and beliefs and our personal experiences and expectations stepping beyond the famous neurologic gate control theory for which he is known wall shows that pain is a matter of behavior and its manifestation differs among individuals situations and cultures the way we deal with pain is an expression of individuality

Explain Pain 2013-07

this is a book about the meanings we make out of pain the greatest surprise i encountered in discussing this topic over the past ten years was the consistency with which i was asked a single unvarying question are you writing about physical pain or mental pain the overwhelming consistency of this response convinces me that modern culture rests upon and underlying belief so strong that it grips us with the force of a founding myth call it the myth of two pains we live in an era when many people believe as a basic unexamined foundation of thought that pain comes divided into separate types physical and mental these two types of pain so the myth goes are as different as land and sea you feel physical pain if your arm breaks and you feel mental pain if your heart breaks between these two different events we seem to imagine a gulf so wide and deep that it might as well be filled by a sea that is impossible to navigate
