performance in the twenty first century theatres of engagement addresses the reshaping of theatre and performance after postmodernism andy lavender argues provocatively that after the classic postmodern tropes of detachment irony and contingency performance in the twenty first century engages more overtly with meaning politics and society it involves a newly pronounced form of personal experience often implicating the body and or one s sense of self this volume examines a range of performance events including work by both emergent and internationally significant companies and artists such as rimini protokol blast theory dreamthinkspeak zecora ura punchdrunk ontroerend goed kris verdonck dries verhoeven rabih mroué derren brown and david blaine it also considers a wider range of cultural phenomena such as online social networking sports events installations games based work and theme parks where principles of performance are in play performance in the twenty first century is a compelling and provocative resource for anybody interested in discovering how performance theory can be applied to cutting edge culture and indeed the world around them

Performance and Authenticity in the Arts

1999-12-09

this book brings together a distinguished group of scholars from music drama poetry performance art religion classics and philosophy to investigate the complex and developing interaction between performance and authenticity in the arts the volume begins with a perspective on traditional understandings of that relation examining the crucial role of performance in the poetics the marriage of art with religion the experiences of religious and aesthetic authenticity and modernist conceptions of authenticity several essays then consider music as a performative art the final essays discuss the link of authenticity to sincerity and truth in poetry explain how performance as an authentic feature of poetry embodies a collective effort and culminate in a discussion of the dark side of performance its constant susceptibility to inauthenticity together the essays suggest how issues of performance and authenticity enter into consideration of a wide range of the arts

Movement and Performance in Berlin School Cinema

2019-02-08

a rich and welcome addition to the surge of scholarly interest in the berlin school studies in european cinema through a study of the contemporary german film movement the berlin school olivia landry examines how narrative film has responded to our highly digitalized and mediatized age not with a focus on stasis and realism but by turning back to movement spectacle and performance she argues that a preoccupation with presence liveness and affect all of which are viewed as critical components of live performance can be found in many of the films of the berlin school challenging the perception that the berlin school is a sheer adherent of slow cinema landry closely analyzes the use of movement dynamism presence and speed in a broad selection of films to show how filmmakers such as christian petzold angela schanelec thomas arslan and christoph hochhäusler invoke the pulse of the kinesthetic and the tangibly affective her analysis draws on an array of film theories from early materialism to body theories phenomenology and contemporary affect theories arguing that these theories readily and energetically forge a path from film to performance landry traces a trajectory between the two through which live experience presence spectacle intersubjectivity and the body in motion emerge and powerfully intersect ultimately movement and performance in berlin school cinema expands the methodological and disciplinary boundaries of film studies by offering new ways of articulating and understanding movement in cinema
