FM 3-09.31 Tactics, Techniques, and Procedures For Fire Support for the Combined Arms Commander 2021-03-13 like its predecessors tc 6 71 1988 and the first field manual version of fm 6 71 1994 this publication is intended for you the combined arms brigade or battalion commander and your staffs to help you synchronize fires with your scheme of maneuver you know from experience that combat forces must be employed as part of the combined arms team maneuver and fires must be synchronized and orchestrated by the combined arms commander to realize the full potential of each arm and maximize the combat power of the combined arms team the same applies in principle to firepower mortars cannon and rocket artillery naval gunfire and air support on the lethal side and intelligence and electronic warfare iew and information operations io systems on the non lethal side are various means of fire support each has its own advantages and disadvantages each provides a measure of capability the others lack responsiveness flexibility and accuracy from mortars and artillery precision and destructiveness from close air support disruption of command and control and capability to exclude collateral damage from iew and io systems using all of these means in combination creates a synergistic effect the whole system is far more effective than its parts the proper application of fire support requires as much skill and orchestration from the combined arms commander as it does from the fire support coordinator fscoord this is what this publication is about to help clarify the art of applying fire support at the right time and place on the battlefield

Field Manual FM 3-13 Information Operations December 2016 2017-03-21 field manual fm 3 13 information operations december 2016 over the past two decades army information operations io has gone through a number of doctrinal evolutions explained in part by the rapidly changing nature of information its flow processing dissemination impact and in particular its military employment at the same time a decade and a half of persistent conflict and global engagement have taught us a lot about the nature of the information environment especially that in any given area of operations this environment runs the gamut from the most technologically advanced to the least army units employ io to create effects in and through the information environment that provide commanders a decisive advantage over adversaries threats and enemies in order to defeat the opponent s will simultaneously army units engage with and influence other relevant foreign audiences to gain their support for friendly objectives commanders io contributes directly to tactical and operational success and supports objectives at the strategic level this latest version of fm 3 13 returns to the joint definition of io although it clarifies that land forces must do more than affect threat decision making if they are to accomplish their mission they must also protect their own decision making and the information that feeds it align their actions messages and images and engage and influence relevant targets and audiences in the area of operations while the term inform and influence activities has been rescinded many of the principles espoused in the last version of fm 3 13 carry forward especially the synchronization of information related capabilities ircs ircs are those capabilities that generate effects in and through the information environment but these effects are almost always accomplished in combination with other information related capabilities only through their effective synchronization can commanders gain a decisive advantage over adversaries threats and enemies in the information environment while capabilities such as military information support operations combat camera military deception operations security and cyberspace operations are readily considered information related commanders consider any capability an irc that is employed to create effects and operationally desirable conditions within a dimension of the information environment
