this book is the story of my flying experiences during world war ii it covers primarily the period from february 1943 to april 1945 at the beginning i explain why and how i got into the army air ~~corps as it was then called and at the end i~~ include an account of my partial convalescence in a u s army hospital in england otherwise i stick closely to my actual flying experiences and the events of that era i omit all but a trivial amount of personal experiences outside of flying i have compiled this account from several sources 1 my memory and my official flight record 2 the letters i wrote to my immediate family while i was in the air corps which i repossessed after my parents died 3 official eighth air force records of bombing missions 4 accounts written by former crew members larry locker john r wingfield and fred stoker and 5 the book the 388th at war by edward huntzinger during the war i had a diary in which i kept brief accounts of day to day events however some eager lackey who must have known that diaries were officially forbidden removed it from my belongings in march 1945 when he transferred them from my bomber unit to the army hospital where i was convalescing fortunately i could verify the dates and events that i include in this account by means of these other sources long ago i determined to write this chronicle if i survived my combat tour i felt that it would be the least i could do for those who will never grow old and can never speak for themselves i do not pretend to speak for them nevertheless if my account is only one among many that bears witness to the trauma and agony of politically organized human conflict it will have served its purpose the title i have chosen derives from the common thought many of us have when we are suddenly enveloped in big events such as for example world war ii boy if they could see me now in the wake of the commercial and political expansion of europe in the eighteenth century there was a remarkable increase in the number of europeans visiting india not merely for trade but also in search of her fabled ancient wisdom the european rediscovery of india s cultural heritage led to the emergence of orientalist scholarship and a belief that india was the original home of the arts and sciences in india the great patron of indie studies was the governor general warren hastings he gathered around himself a select group that included charles wilkins nathaniel halhed and william jones the most famous of the orientalists but the growing political ascendancy of the british in india dampened the early exuberance for indie studies as conquerors the british began to feel the need to justify their conquests and exalt their own race and religion several other forces were at work to turn the tide against india the industrial revolution in england had created the need to convert india into a market for machine jolly one of the most exciting and accomplished voices in british fiction today the extraordinary range of work gathered here is united by a fascination with how everyday interactions can transform our lives in unpredictable ways these are stories of lonely people outcasts and misfits and the ghosts that inhabit our intimate spaces the result is a compelling arresting and at times devastating collection not least in the title story which was inspired by the tragic true events of the 1943 cavan orphanage fire written with an exemplary eye for detail and an intimate the new york times bestselling author of witnessed intruders and missing time three groundbreaking books on the ufo phenomenon returns with astonishing evidence that other worldly beings are a very real and growing part of our lives in sight unseen budd hopkins and coauthor carol rainey show how fascinating discoveries in modern science support the plausibility of the ufo phenomenon featuring sixteen never before published cases sight unseen probes two newly uncovered patterns in alien abduction cases of ufo invisibility and reports of genetically altered alien beings who interact with humans during their routine lives the invisibility accounts detailed by hopkins include numerous daylight abductions in densely populated urban areas all apparently unseen and accomplished through a technology of invisibility two air force non coms are snatched from the
