this book analyses how developmental projects in a globalizing delhi have brought about neglect exclusion and alienation of certain sections of population while benefiting others it discusses the physical economic and social displacement of people in the city in recent times which has deprived them of their lands livelihoods and access to health care in delhi and the national capital region beyond the obvious and apparent image of wide roads flyovers the metro rail network high rises and glittering malls globalization has brought about skewed and uneven development a growing middle class and a significant group of an extremely rich section of population steer the ways in which development strategies are planned and implemented furthermore with government control reducing as is inevitable and consistent with a neoliberal policy framework private players have entered not only the consumer goods sector but also basic goods and services such as agriculture health and education this book explores the effects of such processes with a specific focus on equity on the marginalized sections of population in a globalizing megacity it addresses the themes of land livelihoods and health as overarching drawing upon their interlinkages it traces the changes in the growth of the city in context of these themes and draws inferences from their interconnectedness to examine the current situation of development in delhi delhi one of the world s largest cities has faced momentous challenges mass migration competing governing authorities controversies over citizenship and communal violence to understand the contemporary plight of india s capital city this book revisits one of the most dramatic episodes in its history telling the story of how the city was remade by the twin events of partition and independence treating decolonization as a process that unfolded from the late 1930s into the mid 1950s rotem geva traces how india and pakistan became increasingly territorialized in the imagination and practice of the city s residents how violence and displacement were central to this process and how tensions over belonging and citizenship lingered in the city and the nation she also chronicles the struggle after 1947 between the urge to democratize political life in the new republic and the authoritarian legacy of colonial rule augmented by the imperative to maintain law and order in the face of the partition crisis drawing on a wide range of sources geva reveals the period from the late 1930s to the mid 1950s as a twilight time combining features of imperial framework and independent republic geva places this liminality within the broader global context of the dissolution of multiethnic and multireligious empires into nation states and argues for an understanding of state formation as a contest between various lines of power charting the links between different levels of political struggle and mobilization during the churning early years of independence in delhi
