the book that helped make michael pollan the new york times bestselling author of cooked and the omnivore's dilemma one of the most trusted food experts in america in 1637 one dutchman paid as much for a single tulip bulb as the going price of a town house in amsterdam three and a half centuries later amsterdam is once again the mecca for people who care passionately about one particular plant though this time the obsessions revolves around the intoxicating effects of marijuana rather than the visual beauty of the tulip how could flowers of all things become such objects of desire that they can drive men to financial ruin in the botany of desire michael pollan argues that the answer lies at the heart of the intimately reciprocal relationship between people and plants in telling the stories of four familiar plant species that are deeply woven into the fabric of our lives pollan illustrates how they evolved to satisfy humankind's most basic yearnings and by doing so made themselves indispensable for just as we've benefited from these plants the plants in the grand co evolutionary scheme that pollan evokes so brilliantly have done well by us the sweetness of apples for example induced the early americans to spread the species giving the tree a whole new continent in which to blossom so who is really domesticating whom weaving fascinating anecdotes and accessible science into gorgeous prose pollan takes us on an absorbing journey that will change the way we think about our place in nature

this book examines the connections between two disparate yet persistently bound thematics mobility and intoxication and explores their central yet frequently misunderstood role in constructing subjectivity following the 1960s emerging from profound mid twentieth century changes in how drugs and travel were imagined the conceptual nexus discussed sheds new light on british and north american responses to sixties counterculture with readings of aldous huxley william burroughs alex garland hunter s thompson and robert sedlack banco traces twin arguments looking at the ways travel is imagined as a disciplinary force acting upon the creative destabilizing powers of psychedelic intoxication and exploring the ways drugs help construct travel spaces and practices as at times revolutionary and at other times neo colonial by following a sequence of shifting understandings of drug and travel orthodoxies this book traverses fraught and irresistibly linked terrains from the late 1950s up to a period marked by international postmodern tourism as such it helps illuminate a world where tourism is continually expanding yet constantly circumscribed and where illegal drugs are both increasingly unregulated in the global economy and perceived more and more as crucial agents in the construction of human subjectivity how the future of post legalization marijuana farming can be sustainable local and artisanal what will the marijuana industry look like as legalization spreads will corporations sweep in and create big marijuana flooding the market with mass produced weed or will marijuana agriculture stay true to its roots in family farming and reflect a sustainable local and artisanal ethic in craft weed ryan stoa argues that the future of the marijuana industry should be powered by small farms that its model should be more craft beer than anheuser busch to make his case for craft weed stoa interviews veteran and novice marijuana growers politicians activists and investors he provides a history of marijuana farming and its post hippie resurgence in the united states he reports on the amazing adaptability of the cannabis plant and its genetic gifts the legalization movement regulatory efforts the tradeoffs of indoor versus outdoor farms and the environmental impacts of marijuana agriculture to protect and promote small farmers and their communities stoa proposes a marijuana appellation system modeled after the wine industry which would provide a certified designation of origin to local crops a sustainable local and artisanal farming model is not an inevitable future for the marijuana industry but craft weed makes clear that marijuana legalization has the potential to revitalize rural communities and the american family farm as the era of marijuana prohibition comes to an end now is the time to think about what kind of marijuana industry and marijuana agriculture we want craft weed will help us plan for a future that is almost here
