The Fanaticism of the Apocalypse 2013-04-25 the planet is sick human beings are guilty of damaging it we have to pay today that is the orthodoxy throughout the western world distrust of progress and science calls for individual and collective self sacrifice to save the planet and cultivation of fear behind the carbon commissars a dangerous and counterproductive ecological catastrophism is gaining ground modern society's susceptibility to this kind of thinking derives from what bruckner calls the seductive attraction of disaster as exemplified by the popular appeal of disaster movies but ecological catastrophism is harmful in that it draws attention away from other more solvable problems and injustices in the world in order to focus on something that is portrayed as an apocalypse rather than preaching catastrophe and pessimism we need to develop a democratic and generous ecology that addresses specific problems in a practical way

Il Mentalismo Scientifico 2009-06-30 in this remarkable collaboration one of the nation's leading civil rights lawyers joins forces with one of the world's foremost cultural psychologists to put american constitutional law into an american cultural context by close readings of key supreme court opinions they show how storytelling tactics and deeply rooted mythic structures shape the court's decisions about race family law and the death penalty minding the law explores crucial psychological processes involved in the work of lawyers and judges deciding whether particular cases fit within a legal rule categorizing telling stories to justify one's claims or undercut those of an adversary narrative and tailoring one's language to be persuasive without appearing partisan rhetorics because these processes are not unique to the law courts decisions cannot rest solely upon legal logic but must also depend vitally upon the underlying culture's storehouse of familiar tales of heroes and villains but a culture's stock of stories is not changeless amsterdam and bruner argue that culture itself is a dialectic constantly in progress a conflict between the established canon and newly imagined possible worlds they illustrate the swings of this dialectic by a masterly analysis of the supreme court's race discrimination decisions during the past century a passionate plea for heightened consciousness about the way law is practiced and made minding the law tilte will be welcomed by a new generation concerned with renewing law's commitment to a humane justice table of contents 1 invitation to a journey 2 on categories 3 categorizing at the supreme court missouri v jenkins and michael h v gerald d 4 on narrative 5 narratives at court prigg v pennsylvania and freeman v pitts 6 on rhetorics 7 the rhetorics of death mccleskey v kemp 8 on the dialectic of culture 9 race the court and america's dialectic from plessy through brown to pitts and jenkins 10 reflections on a voyage appendix analysis of nouns and verbs in the prigg pitts and brown opinions notes table of cases index reviews of this book amsterdam a distinguished supreme court litigator wanted to do more than share the fruits of his practical experience he also wanted to get students to think about thinking like a lawyer to decode what he calls law think he enlisted the aid of the venerable cognitive psychologist jerome bruner and the collaboration has resulted in this unusual book james ryerson lingua franca reviews of this book it is hard to imagine a better time for the publication of minding the law a brilliant dissection of the court's work by two eminent scholars law professor anthony g amsterdam and cultural anthropologist jerome bruner issue by issue case by case amsterdam and bruner make mincemeat of the court's handling of the most important constitutional issue of the modern era how to eradicate the american legacy of race discrimination especially against blacks edward lazarus los angeles times book review reviews of this book this book is a gem its thesis is easily stated but remarkably unrecognized among a shockingly large number of lawyers and law professors law is a storytelling enterprise thoroughly entrenched in culture whereas critical legal theorists have talked among themselves for the past two decades amsterdam and bruner seek to engage all of us in a dialogue for that they should be applauded daniel r williams new york law journal reviews of this book in minding the law anthony amsterdam and jerome bruner show us how the supreme court creates the magic of inevitability they are angry at what they see their book is premised on the conviction that many of the choices made in supreme court opinions lack any justification in the text their method is to analyze the text of opinions and to show how the conclusions reached do not always follow from the logic of the argument they also show how the court casts its rhetoric like a spell mesmerizing its audience and making the highly contingent shine with the light of inevitability mitchell goodman news and observer raleigh north carolina reviews of this book what do controversial supreme court decisions and classic age old tales of adultery villainy and combat have in common everything at least in the eyes of amsterdam and bruner in this substantial study which is equal parts dense and entertaining the authors use theoretical discussions of literary technique and myths to expose what they see as the secret intentions of supreme court opinions studying how lawyers and judges employ the various literary devices at their disposal and noting the similarities between legal thinking and classic tactics of storytelling and persuasion they believe can have astonishing consciousness retrieving effects the agile minds of amsterdam and bruner clearly

Italians 2008-12-18 in his quest for military glory Benito Mussolini sent the Italian eighth army to the eastern front to help fight the Russians only to have his forces routed within little more than a month of the launch of the Soviet counteroffensives of the winter of 1942 1943 the Cuneense a division of mountain troops was hit especially hard with only a small percentage of its troops straggling back to Italy the rest were killed in action or died of frostbite or in captivity from malnourishment overwork and disease all told the Italians suffered roughly 75 000 dead more than in their six month campaign in Greece and Albania or in their three years in North Africa Nuto Revelli who fought in Russia himself interviewed forty three other survivors of the campaign for a book that has become a classic among Italian war memoirs first published in Italian in 1966 as La Strada del Davaì Revelli's account now available in English vividly recaptures the experiences and sobering reflections of these men it provides a chilling look at an experience that in English language writing has been overshadowed by that of the main actors on the eastern front when news of the rout reached Italy the shock was devastating in Revelli's home province of Cuneo the recruiting territory of the annihilated Cuneense division some villages lost almost all men of military age the resulting rage and bitterness later fueled the partisan war against the Germans and Italian fascists the veterans of Mussolini's death march speak candidly of nights in the open of extreme cold gnawing hunger and eruptive madness thousands who survived the Soviet onslaught were taken prisoner and died on the so called davaì marches named for Russian guards' command to keep prisoners moving or later in the camps themselves even so they developed a favorable impression of the Russian people who provided hospitality in their small houses and aid to the wounded together their recollections provide an eye opening look at a largely neglected aspect of World War II
