psychotherapy and the treatment of cancer patients addresses the need for a more integrated care of cancer patients within hospitals which pays attention to the mental anguish as well as physical distress caused by the disease this book is based on lawrence goldie s own research with cancer patients which has shown that psychoanalytic psychotherapy together with general medical care can significantly help dying patients cope with the pain and suffering associated with the disease drawing on this research the book advocates a more holistic approach to the cancer patient and suggests ways in which more expert attention might be provided through awareness training and in facing death and the fear of death a psychoanalytic perspective on treatment dr norman straker proposes that death anxiety is responsible for the american society s failure to address costly futile care at the end of life more specifically doctors default on the appropriate prescription of palliative care because of this anxiety this leads to unnecessary suffering for terminally ill patients and their families and significant distress for physicians to address these challenges in the culture of medical education increased psychological support for physicians who treat dying patients is necessary additionally physicians need to reach a consensus regarding the discontinuation of active treatments psychoanalysts have traditionally denied the importance of death anxiety and report relatively few treatment cases of dying patients in their literature this book offers multiple treatment reports by psychoanalysts that illustrate the effectiveness and value of a flexible approach to patients facing death the psychoanalytic
