professionals to identify prevent and mitigate the adverse health impacts of social isolation and loneliness in older adults social isolation and loneliness in older adults summarizes the evidence base and explores how social isolation and loneliness affect health and quality of life in adults aged 50 and older particularly among low income underserved and vulnerable populations this report makes recommendations specifically for clinical settings of health care to identify those who suffer the resultant negative health impacts of social isolation and loneliness and target interventions to improve their social conditions social isolation and loneliness in older adults considers clinical tools and methodologies better education and training for the health care workforce and dissemination and implementation that will be important for translating research into practice especially as the evidence base for effective interventions continues to flourish a field of theory and research is evolving around the question highlighted in the uncanny valley hypothesis how does high realism in anthropomorphic design influence human experience and behaviour the uncanny valley hypothesis posits that a very humanlike character or object e g robot prosthetic limb doll can evoke a negative affective i e uncanny state recent advances in robotic and computer graphic technologies in simulating aspects of human appearance behaviour and interaction have been accompanied therefore by theorising and research on the meaning and relevance of the uncanny valley hypothesis for anthropomorphic design current understanding of the uncanny idea is still fragmentary and further original research is needed however the emerging picture indicates that the relationship between humanlike realism and subjective experience and behaviour may not be as straightforward as the uncanny valley hypothesis suggests this research topic brings together researchers from traditionally separate domains including robotics computer graphics cognitive science psychology and neuroscience to provide a snapshot of current work in this field a diversity of issues and questions are addressed in contributions that include original research review theory and opinion papers health has been conceptualized by world and national health organizations who cdc healthy people 2010 as more than the absence of disease it involves a focus on physical psychosocial and functional aspects of life as well as the prevention of future illnesses at this point in the development of quality health care for cancer survivors there is sufficient knowledge and expert opinion to push efforts forward to improve the health of cancer survivors clearly there is more research in the most prevalent forms of cancers e g breast cancer than others that provide us with guidance on how to optimize their health but there are data on other forms of cancers that can also better inform practice there may also be general care practices that can cut across cancer types there has been an emergence of epidemiological and clinical research in cancer survivors that can form the basis for a revolution in the quality and nature of health care that survivors receive this book not only provides the reader with diverse perspectives and data but also integrates this information so it can serve as the foundation necessary to improve and maintain the health of cancer survivors reporting of symptoms to health care providers is a complex multi determined problem influenced not only by the pathophysiology but also as we have learned over the years through pain research by societal cultural and biobehavioral factors this book will consider this important aspect of follow up for millions of cancer survivors because of the strong reliance on symptom reporting for clinical decision making in order for us to generate meaningful and effective treatment we need to better understand the symptom experience in cancer survivors this book provides much information that will assist us to better understand and manage this complicated end point the presenting problems need to be articulated and conceptualized as clearly as possible by both parties so appropriate actions can be taken since health care costs are a major concern for patients payers and providers this area will also be addressed in all the relevant sections in taking an interdisciplinary perspective this book illustrates the importance of a team approach to the improvement of health care and associated health well being and functioning in cancer survivors the 17 chapters cover critical topics of which physicians and providers of all types must be aware in order to provide the most comprehensive and responsive care for cancer survivors all of the clinical care chapters include case studies to illustrate the real world application of these approaches in cancer survivors information about sources of referral both within and outside the traditional health care communities will be provided in tabular form there is no other text that provides both an overview of the problems and their challenges case illustrations of direct application and the reality of reimbursement for such care the editors hope that there may be no need for the clinician or the survivor to adapt to a new normal if the presenting problems are understood and handled from an interdisciplinary perspective as outlined here interest in the role of extracellular vesicles microvesicles and exosomes is expanding rapidly it is now apparent that far from being merely cellular debris these vesicles play a key role in cell to cell communication and signaling moreover they are significantly elevated in a number of diseases this raises the question of their direct role in pathogenesis as well as their possible use as biomarkers this book stems from the first international meeting on microvesicles and nanovesicles in health and disease held at magdalen college oxford in 2010 the purpose of the meeting was to bring together for the first time a range of experts from around the world to discuss the latest advances in this field key to the study of these vesicles is the availability of methodologies for their measurement in biological fluids a major section of the meeting focused on a range of exciting new technologies which have been developed for this purpose the presentations at this meeting form the basis of this book which will appeal to basic scientists clinicians and those developing technology for the measurement of extracellular vesicles a new collection that captures the austere serenity of the southwest american desert award winning paris based poet alice notley s adventurous new book is inspired by the life of marie a woman who resided in the dump outside notley s hometown in the southwestern desert of america in this poetical fantasy marie becomes the ultimate artist poet composing a codex calligraphy writings paintings collage from materials left at the dump she is a culture of one the story is told in long lined clear edged poems deliberately stacked so the reader can keep plunging headlong into the events of the book culture of one offers further proof of how notley has freed herself from any single notion of what poetry should be so that she can go ahead and write what poetry can be the boston review a field of theory and research is evolving around the question highlighted in the uncanny valley hypothesis how does high realism in anthropomorphic design influence human experience and behaviour the uncanny valley hypothesis posits that a very humanlike character or object e g robot prosthetic limb doll can evoke a negative affective i e uncanny state recent advances in robotic and computer graphic technologies in simulating aspects of human appearance behaviour and interaction have been accompanied therefore by theorising and research on the meaning and relevance of the uncanny valley hypothesis for anthropomorphic design current understanding of the uncanny idea is still fragmentary and further original research is needed however the emerging picture indicates that the relationship between humanlike realism and subjective experience and behaviour may not be as straightforward as the uncanny valley hypothesis suggests this research topic brings together researchers from traditionally separate domains including robotics computer graphics cognitive science psychology and neuroscience to provide a snapshot of current work in this field a diversity of issues and questions are addressed in contributions that include original research review theory and opinion papers
