cal newport's clearly written manifesto flies in the face of conventional wisdom by suggesting that it should be a person's talent and skill and not necessarily their passion that determines their career path. newport, who graduated from dartmouth college, phi beta kappa, and earned a phd from mit, contends that trying to find what drives us instead of focusing on areas in which we naturally excel is ultimately harmful and frustrating to job seekers. the title is a direct quote from comedian steve martin, who when once asked why he was successful in his career immediately replied, "be so good they can't ignore you," and that's the main basis for newport's book. skill and ability trump passion. inspired by former apple ceo steve jobs' famous stanford university commencement speech in which jobs urges idealistic grads to chase their dreams, newport takes issue with that advice, claiming that not only is thsi advice pollyannish, but that jobs himself never followed his own advice. from there, newport presents compelling scientific and contemporary case study evidence that the key to one's career success is to find out what you do well where you have built up your career capital and then to put all of your efforts into that direction.

this book teaches frustrated, stressed-out parents that selectively ignoring certain behaviors can actually inspire positive changes in their kids. with all the whining, complaining, begging, and negotiating, parenting can seem more like a chore than a pleasure. dr. catherine pearlman, syndicated columnist and one of america's leading parenting experts, has a simple yet revolutionary solution: ignore it. dr. pearlman's four-step process returns the joy to child rearing, combining highly effective strategies with time-tested approaches. she teaches parents when to selectively look the other way, to withdraw reinforcement for undesirable behaviors. too often we find ourselves bargaining, debating, arguing, and pleading with kids instead of improved behavior. parents are ensuring that the behavior will not only continue but often get worse when children receive no attention or reward for misbehavior. they realize their ways of acting are ineffective and cease doing it. using proven strategies supported by research, this book shows parents how to avoid engaging in a power struggle, stop using attention as a reward for misbehavior, use effective behavior modification techniques to diminish and often eliminate problem behaviors, overflowing with wisdom, tips, scenarios, frequently asked questions, and a lot of encouragement. ignore it is the parenting program that promises to return bliss to the lives of exasperated parents.

when hugh macleod was a struggling young copywriter living in a ymca, he started to doodle on the backs of business cards while sitting at a bar. those cartoons eventually led to a popular blog, gapingvoid.com, and a reputation for pithy insight and humor in both words and pictures. macleod has opinions on everything from marketing to the meaning of life, but one of his main subjects is creativity. how do new ideas emerge in a cynical, risk-averse world where does inspiration come from? what does it take to make a living as a creative person? now his first book, ignore everyone, expands on his sharpest insights, wittiest cartoons, and most useful advice. a sample selling out is harder than it looks. diluting your product to make it more commercial will just make people like it less. if your plan depends on you suddenly being discovered by some big shot, your plan will probably fail. nobody suddenly discovers anything. things are made slowly and in pain. don't try to stand out from the crowd. avoid crowds altogether. there's no point trying to do the same thing as 250,000 other young hopefuls waiting for a miracle. all existing business models are wrong. find a new one. the idea doesn't have to be big; it just has to be yours. the sovereignty you have over your work will inspire far more people than the actual content ever will. after learning macleod's 40 keys to creativity, you will be ready to unlock your own brilliance and unleash it on the world.

the christian church adopts its name from jesus the christ they are called christians because they follow jesus teachings and examples or do they one would think that jesus words would be held in high esteem within the christian church and they would do what they could to obey jesus but that s not the case strangely enough i can quote dozens of verses commands and warnings that the church completely ignores and they are not insignificant verses for example jesus told us to keep the law and the prophets until heaven and earth pass away what christian does that what church teaches that what preacher preaches that i know of none there are many such serious commands by jesus that are completely ignored placing all in the christian church on the broad way headed for destruction why i address that in this book and much more from the founder of the climate outreach and information network a groundbreaking take on the most urgent question of our time why despite overwhelming scientific evidence do we still ignore climate change please read this book and think about it bill nye most of us recognize that climate change is real and yet we do nothing to stop it what is this psychological mechanism that allows us to know something is true but act as if it is not george marshall's search for the answers brings him face to face with nobel prize winning psychologists and the activists of the texas tea party the world's leading climate scientists and the people who denounce them liberal environmentalists and conservative evangelicals what he discovered is that our values assumptions and prejudices can take on lives of their own gaining authority as they are shared dividing people in their wake with engaging stories and drawing on years of his own research marshall argues that the answers do not lie in the things that make us different and drive us apart but rather in what we all share how our human brains are wired our evolutionary origins our perceptions of threats our cognitive blindspots our love of storytelling our fear of death and our deepest instincts to defend our family and tribe once we understand what excites threatens and motivates us we can rethink and reimagine climate change for it is not an impossible problem rather it is one we can halt if we can make it our common purpose and common ground silence and inaction are the most persuasive of narratives so we need to change the story in the end don't even think about it is both about climate change and about the qualities that make us human and how we can grow as we deal with the greatest challenge we have ever faced
