throughout its entire history the discipline of anthropology has been perceived as undermining or even discrediting christian faith many of its most prominent theorists have been agnostics who assumed that ethnographic findings and theories had exposed religious beliefs to be untenable e b tylor the founder of the discipline in britain lost his faith through studying anthropology james frazer saw the material that he presented in his highly influential work the golden bough as demonstrating that christian thought was based on the erroneous thought patterns of savages on the other hand some of the most eminent anthropologists have been christians including e e evans pritchard mary douglas victor turner and edith turner moreover they openly presented articulate reasons for how their religious convictions cohered with their professional work despite being a major site of friction between faith and modern thought the relationship between anthropology and christianity has never before been the subject of a book length study in this groundbreaking work timothy larsen examines the point where doubt and faith collide with anthropological theory and evidence the gospel of jesus christ is always situated within a particular cultural context but how should christians approach the complex relationship between their faith and the surrounding culture should we simply retreat from culture should we embrace our cultural practices and mindset how important is it for us to be engaged with our culture and mindset how might we do that with discernment and faithfulness william edgar offers a biblical theology in the light of our contemporary culture that contends that christians should and indeed must engage with the surrounding culture by exploring what scripture has to say about the role of culture and gleaning insights from a variety of theologians including abraham kuyper t s eliot h richard niebuhr and c s lewis edgar contends that cultural engagement is a fundamental aspect of human existence he does not shy away from those passages that emphasize the distinction between christians and the world yet he finds shining through the biblical witness evidence that supports a robust defence of the cultural mandate to be fruitful and multiply and fill the earth and subdue it genesis 1 28 with clarity and wisdom edgar argues that we are most faithful to our calling as god s creatures when we participate in creating culture introduction part 1 parameters of culture part 2 challenges from scripture part 3 the cultural mandate epilogue

we live in a wired world where 24 7 digital connectivity is increasingly the norm christian megachurch communities often embrace this reality wholeheartedly while more traditional churches often seem hesitant and overwhelmed by the need for an interactive website a facebook page and a twitter feed this book accepts digital connectivity as our reality but presents a vision of how faith communities can utilize technology to better be the body of christ to those who are hurting while also helping followers of christ think critically about the limits of our digital attachments this book begins with a conversion story of a non cell phone owning non facebook using religion professor judgmental of the ability of digital tools to enhance relationships a stage iv cancer diagnosis later in the midst of being held up by virtual communities of support a conversion occurs this religion professor benefits in embodied ways from virtual sources and wants to convert others to the reality that the body of christ can and does exist virtually and makes embodied difference in the lives of those who are hurting the book neither uncritically embraces nor rejects the constant digital connectivity present in our lives rather it calls on the church to a recognize ways in which digital social networks already enact the virtual body of christ b tap into and expand how christ is being experienced virtually c embrace thoughtfully the material effects of our new augmented reality and c influence utilization of technology that minimizes distraction and maximizes attentiveness toward god and the world god loves
