in the early 1800s ayrshire was already established as a prosperous mainly rural agricultural county the realization that there was abundant coal and to a lesser extent iron ore deposits to be exploited together with the coming of the industrial revolution rendered the area wide open to the railway mania that swept britain in the mid to late 1800s the proximity of the county north to glasgow and south to carlisle and thence south made it an attractive proposition for early railway developers gordon thomson explores the history and development of the railway routes in ayrshire how the coming of the railways changed the face of the area and supported the growth of industry it looks at how services evolved through the eras of lms nationalization and privatization and the preservation and heritage scene in ayrshire

although leadership is obviously a topic with global significance this special issue has a distinctive european flavor this is partly due to the fact that the contributors and editors hail from five european countries but even the two chapters that describe major cross national research covering up to 60 countries concentrate attention on european issues including eastern countries that only moved into the center of europe six or seven years ago the justification for inclusion in this special issue is that each report makes a potentially practical contribution to work and organizational psychologists and those working in organizations in the area of human resource management or consultancy european psychology has not yet given leadership anything like the attention it deserves and consequently the contrast with the united states where this subject is extensively researched is very noticeable this special edition may lead to a reassessment of the opportunities and perhaps also act as a stimulus for more applied research to be carded out to engage with the prevalent conditions in europe the growth of the european union and its various harmonization provisions seeks to establish what is often called a level playing field for organizations and this will give leaders in competing enterprises new challenges and new opportunities several contributions in the present special issue begin to relate to these developing areas
