format the viewer's eye instinctively moves around the image in a circle to take everything in. In 2D geometry, the technique of composing using geometric shapes—circles, squares, diamonds, triangles—in the square format is powerful. Basically, there are four formats: the horizontal rectangle, horizontal vertical, horizontal oblong, and the square. The horizontal rectangle 3:4:5 is the most traditional, due in part to our human field of perception; its horizontal nature relates to the earth's surface, creating a grounded and calming effect.
