the few facts known about the life of dionysius are virtually all given us by the author himself at the close of the preface to the roman antiquities chap 8 he announces himself as dionysius the son of alexander and a native of halicarnassus he also informs us chap 7 that he had come to italy at the time when augustus caesar put an end to the civil war in the middle of the 187th olympiad late in 30 b c or in 29 and that he had spent the following twenty two years in acquainting himself with the language and the literature of the romans in gathering his materials and in writing his history the preface is dated chap 3 in the consulship of nero and piso 7 b c and the first part at least of the work must have been published at that time it is generally assumed that the entire history appeared then but in book vii 70 2 dionysius refers to book i as having been already published this leaves it an open question in how many instalments and at what intervals he issued the work we do not know the exact date of his birth but two casual statements in the history enable us to fix it within certain limits aeterna press dionysius the areopagite or pseudo dionysius the areopagite remains one of the most enigmatic figures of the early christianity he was a greek author christian theologian and neoplatonic philosopher of the late 5th to early 6th century who wrote a set of works known as the corpus areopagiticum or corpus dionysiacum the author pseudonymously identifies himself in the corpus as dionysios portraying himself as dionysius the areopagite the athenian convert of paul the apostle mentioned in acts 17 34 this attribution to the earliest decades of christianity resulted in the work being given great authority in subsequent theological writing in both the east and the west the dionysian writings and their mystical teaching were universally accepted throughout the east amongst both chalcedonians and non chalcedonians and also had a strong impact in later medieval western mysticism most notably meister eckhart its influence decreased in the west with the fifteenth century demonstration of its later dating but in recent decades interest has increased again in the corpus areopagiticum how christian leaders adapted the governmental practices and political thought of their muslim rulers in the abbasid caliphate the imam of the christians examines how christian leaders adopted and adapted the political practices and ideas of their muslim rulers between 750 and 850 in the abbasid caliphate in the jazira modern eastern turkey and northern syria focusing on the writings of dionysius of tel mahre the patriarch of the jacobite church philip wood describes how this encounter produced an islamicate christianity that differed from the christianities of byzantium and western europe in far more than just theology in doing so wood opens a new window on the world of early islam and muslims interactions with other religious communities wood shows how dionysius and other christian clerics by forging close ties with muslim elites were able to command greater power over their coreligionists such as the right to issue canons regulating the lives of lay people gather tithes and use state troops to arrest opponents in his writings dionysius advertises his ease in the courts of ‘abd allah ibn tahir in raqqa and the caliph al ma mun in baghdad presenting himself as an effective advocate for the interests of his fellow christians because of his knowledge of arabic and his ability to redeploy islamic ideas to his own advantage strikingly dionysius even claims that like al ma mun he is an imam since he leads his people in prayer and rules them by popular consent a wide ranging examination of middle eastern christian life during a critical period in the development of islam the imam of the christians is also a case study of the surprising workings of cultural and religious adaptation
