this book challenges and revises existing ways of thinking about leaving care policy practice and research at regional national and international levels bringing together contributors from fifteen countries it covers a range of topical policy and practice issues within national international or comparative contexts these include youth justice disability access to higher education the role of advocacy groups ethical challenges and cultural factors in doing so it demonstrates that whilst young people are universally a vulnerable group there are vast differences in their experiences of out of home care and transitions from care and their shorter and longer term outcomes equally there are significant variations between jurisdictions in terms of the legislative policy and practice supports and opportunities made available to them this significant edited collection is essential reading for all those who work with young people from care including social workers counsellors and youth and community practitioners as well as for students and scholars of child welfare in the quiet time of my life in prayer and meditation i felt impressed to write devotions i had just brought my husband in from a long hospital stay after being diagnosed with congestion heart failure and staying in icu i was very tired i stayed so close to him when doctors said he wasn t going to make it i just kept praying and calling for prayer going to the chapel seeking god when he began to get better i knew then god was going to help him and give him more time but i didn t stop praying i continued on then we found out he had to be transferred to another hospital for an emergency surgery for a triple bypass so i felt a lot of comfort from god and just kept on praying and asking for prayer and always calling for prayer going to find the chapel spending time in the quiet chapel on my knees crying and praying he was at that hospital for about a month finally back to my home in the country while i took care of him while he was asleep and resting throughout the day and evening god laid it on my heart to write devotions i realized i needed healing to after all that and i had went through several hurts in life so it got to be kind of healing for me to write devotions late in the evening i would read some of them to my husband paul and he liked them i would write them only when i had quiet times it began to bring healing in my life my devotions are about my christian raising growing up like my parents some about my family which is about my kids and grandkids faith building scriptures and biblical stories and about myself i hope my book gives you more hope love faith a stronger dedication and a real seriousness of jesus christ love in christ pam pamela edwards was going blind what job could she do without vision how would she support herself and her children when pamela received her retinitis pigmentosa diagnosis it sent her world into chaos as a single mother of three small children she had to fight giving into the blindness was never an option she needed to find a way but feared time was not on her side with the help of those closest to her she found the resources and confidence to persevere consumed with self doubt pamela pursued training and education to help her function in daily life without vision every experience taught her something new about herself and helped her to go on another day despair consumed her but she reached deep within and searched her inner soul she wrapped herself in music she found joy in her children she prepared for a future without sight and she journaled almost every day but with each passing day month and year she waited for the morning when she would wake up to complete darkness many years later with a small field of vision remaining pamela revisited her personal journals from the years when she struggled to make it through the day she saw them in a new light the grief that had overwhelmed her had not kept her from finding joy and purpose in life the journey brought her full circle in her healing and self growth through every bittersweet hardship she was transformed she replaced the days of feeling inadequate with days of creative self expression now she sees her life for what it is and what it has always been a kaleidoscope of beauty the diary of edith lorrimer england 1871 i was shown the laundry a vast noisy sunless room full of steam and the sharp smell of soapsuds i counted seven women slaving over the large tubs where the clothes are washed their reddened faces shiny with sweat even in this weather condensation ran down the windows and pooled on the floor heavy wooden racks are pulled up and down from the high ceiling and the sheets and clothes are draped over them and hoisted up to the ceiling from where they drip on the unfortunates toiling beneath no doubt rosie takes her turn in here just to think of it filled my eyes with tears what a terrible existence edith lorrimer is the sheltered daughter of a wealthy widow who is on the board of governors at a
