The Poetry of Personality 2015-07-22 how did we first come to believe in a correspondence between writers' lives and their works when did the person of the author both as context and target of textual interpretation come to matter so much to the way we read this book traces the development of author centrism back to the scholarship of early renaissance humanists working against allegoresis and other traditions of non historicizing textual reception they discovered the power of engaging ancient works through the speculative reconstruction of writers' personalities and artistic motives to trace the multi lingual and eventually cross cultural rise of reading for the author this book presents four case studies of resolutely experimental texts by and about writers of high ambition in their respective generations lorenzo valla on the forger of the donation of constantine erasmus on saint jerome the poet george gascoigne on himself and fulke greville on sir philip sidney an opening methodological chapter and exhortative conclusion frame these four studies with accounts of the central lexicon character intention ethos persona and the range of genre evidence that contemporaries used to discern and articulate authorial character and purpose constellated throughout with examples from the works of major contemporaries including john aubrey john hayward galileo machiavelli and shakespeare this volume resurrects a vibrant culture of biographism continuous with modern popular practice and yet radically more nuanced in its strategic reliance on the explanatory power of probabilism and historical conjecture the discursive middle ground now obscured from view by the post enlightenment binaries of truth and fiction history and story fact and fable

Thomas Jefferson, a Character Sketch 2006-01-11 the growing interest in research on temperament during the last decade has been recorded by several authors e.g. r. plomin j. e. bates from such sources of information as the social sciences citation index or psychological abstracts the editors' inquiry shows that the number of cases in which the term temperament was used in the title of a paper or in the paper's abstract published in psychological abstracts reveals an essential increase in research on temperament during the years 1975 to 1979 the term temperament was used in the title and/or summary of 173 abstracts i.e. 34.6 publications per year during the next five years 1980-1984 it was used in 367 abstracts 73.4 publications per year whereas in the last five years 1985 to 1989 the term has appeared in 463 abstracts that is in 92.6 publications per year even if the review of temperament literature is restricted to those abstracts it can easily be concluded that temperament is used in different contexts and with different meanings hardly allowing any comparisons or general statements one of the consequences of this state of affairs is that our knowledge on temperament does not cumulate despite the increasing research activity in this field this situation in temperament research motivated the editors to organize a one week workshop on the diagnosis of temperament bielefeld federal republic of germany september 1987
