chosen by randall mann as a winner of the jake adam york prize brian tierney s rise and float depicts the journey of a poet working remarkably miraculously to make our most profound private wounds visible on the page with the corpse of frost under his heel tierney reckons with a life that resists poetic rendition the transgenerational impact of mental illness a struggle with disordered eating a father s death from cancer the loss of loved ones to addiction and suicide all of these compound to month after month and dream after dream of struck through lines still tierney commands poetry s cathartic potential through searing images wallpaper peeling like wrist skin when a grater slips a laugh as good as a scream pears as hard as a tumor these poems commune with their ghosts not to overcome but to release the course of rise and float is not straightforward where one poem gently confesses to trying these days to believe again in people another concedes that defeat sometimes is defeat without purpose look the chair is just a chair but therein lies the beauty of this collection in the proximity and occasional overlap of these voices we see something alluringly openly human between a boy torn open by dogs and a suicide two beautiful teenagers are kissing between screams something intimate hope however difficult it may be description bound by the need for breath we lie on beds of foaming rubber but the room is filled with the rhythm of blood and need and the story we lie quietly listening the whales are singing each to each it is my last article of belief they understand their music you and i only have words outside the window the sea the sea searching for safe havens wanting to cut loose trying to make peace with death love and madness learning that we can wound and be wounded looking for solace and meaning through rage and confusion jerry pinto s debut collection of poems asylum established him as a true original a writer unafraid to be vulnerable to take risks to open the door and blunder into the world or let it sweep in he travels wrote imtiaz dharker the breathtaking spaces between madness luminosity and quiet rebellion this is a writer who draws precise lines of control and then with surprising tenderness crosses them
