abiotic stresses such as drought water deficit extreme temperatures cold frost and heat salinity sodicity and mineral metal and metalloid toxicity limit productivity of crop plants worldwide and are big threats to global food security with worsening climate change scenarios these stresses will further increase in intensity and frequency improving tolerance to abiotic stresses therefore has become a major objective in crop breeding programs a lot of research has been conducted on the regulatory mechanisms signaling pathways governing these abiotic stresses and cross talk among them in various model and non model species also various omics platforms have been utilized to unravel the candidate genes underpinning various abiotic stresses which have increased our understanding of the tolerance mechanisms at structural physiological transcriptional and molecular level further a wealth of information has been generated on the role of chromatin assembly and its remodeling under stress and on the epigenetic dynamics via histones modifications the book consolidates outlooks perspectives and updates on the research conducted by scientists in the abovementioned areas the information covered in this book will therefore interest workers in all areas of plant sciences the results presented on multiple crops will be useful to scientists in building strategies to counter these stresses in plants in addition students who are beginners in the areas of abiotic stress tolerance will find this book handy to clear their concepts and to get an update on the research conducted in various crops at one place
