Further Vocational Training Energy Service Manager 2018-09-18 a study viewed the existing motor vehicle sector structure and trading conditions and identified and analyzed the best and most significant continuing vocational training practices in ireland in 1991 the motor vehicle sector accounted for 6.2 percent of the gross national product employment in the sector has decreased from an estimated 24 000 in 1988 to 17 000 in 1992 the impact of legislation on the irish motor industry was significant requiring those engaged in the industry to cope with a wide variety of laws and statutory instruments the industry has been well served by the statutory scheme for apprentices companies involved in four case studies were a component manufacturer nissan ford and volkswagen audi each case study described the case the firm providers of continuing vocational education training policy of the firm evaluation of the training concepts and conclusions in relation to best practice and normal practice the case studies demonstrated the organization of work at distributor level was very professional at no time in the history of the motor industry in ireland did polarization of skills within trades occur all round skills were found necessary for the survival of the dealership the relationship between franchise dealers and the distributors was very good the only regulated training was apprenticeship indicated trends were static or slightly increased employment in the motor vehicle sector and training needs that correspond to the overall development of vehicle technology and design ylb

Training in the Motor Vehicle Repair and Sales Sector in Germany 1994

training in denmark s motor vehicle repair and sales sector was examined in a study that included the following approaches review of the sector s structure characteristics institutional social context changing conditions and their implications for skill requirements and training and available initial and continuing vocational education and training in depth case studies of four auto repair shops and dealerships and identification of economic employment and training trends it was discovered that increasing competition within the sector has led to increasing emphasis on customers and consequently increased awareness that well trained competent workers are essential to maintaining customer loyalty decreasing vehicle sales and decreased need for vehicle repairs have led to falling wages and a decrease in the number of available positions in the sector availability of continuing vocational training varies considerably throughout the sector only authorized dealers and repair shops have access to importers courses and importers lack the capacity to meet dealer interest in their courses despite recent collective bargaining agreements stipulating employees right to at least 1 week of continuing vocational training annually and despite the need for workers to upgrade their skills in response to technological advances public continuing vocational training activities have decreased in recent years twenty three tables are included mn

A Training Course Presented by the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Bureau of Training 1977 an international team of researchers studied the following aspects of training in belgium s motor vehicle repair and sales sector structure and characteristics institutional and social context relationship to belgium s overall labor market changing structural economic and organizational conditions and training and recruitment and relationship to belgium s education system data were obtained from a review of government social and labor employment statistics and from case studies of the four firms peugeot talbot volvo ford and mercedes each case study included a general profile of the company its personnel management and vocational policies and its provisions for continuing ongoing training belgium s educational system was found to contain at least four different channels by which individuals can prepare for jobs in the sector most public private collaborative training efforts were focused on at risk groups in total training activities within the sector the initiatives taken by motor vehicle manufacturers played the most important role training initiatives and policies varied widely by company collaborations between different manufacturers appeared to represent a very important option for the future and self study was increasing in importance most manufacturers invested in their own training infrastructures however training was also contracted out fifteen tables are included mn
