My Life As Abraham Lincoln 2006-07-01 excerpt from life of abraham lincoln being a biography of his life from his birth to his assassination also a record of his ancestors and a collection of anecdotes attributed to lincoln near the point where the states of virginia tennessee and kentucky meet there is a wonderful gateway in the mountains which was discovered in 1748 by thomas walker and named cumberland gap in honor of the duke of cumberland prime minister to king george of england he reported that it opened into a beautiful region inhabited by indians and wild animals from this gap north to where the waterways which form the ohio river break through the mountains the rugged and towering alleghenies present an almost impassable wall between virginia and the country west this barrier helped to protect the inhabitants against the warrior bands of western indians and for a time confined the march of the settler to the shenandoah valley daniel boone had heard of the discovery of an opening in the mountains not far from his home and he thirsted for exploration of the unknown solitudes beyond through which only indians roamed he was one of the elder sons of squire boone who had come from pennsylvania and settled in wilkes county north carolina on the yadkin river from his youth daniel had shown a special fondness for hunting before he was ten years old he could shoot a deer while it was upon the run and while yet a lad made long trips from home alone and was never lost he was a born woodsman he had the cunning and eye of an indian and could determine the points of the compass by the stars like a mariner in 1769 this intrepid hunter in company with three companions passed through cumberland gap into the wild territory west of the mountains on a hunting and exploring expedition as they advanced the country and attractions improved they traveled through vast reaches of somber forest penetrating far into the interior boone and one of his companions were captured by the indians but made their escape when they returned to their camp the other two men had disappeared and were never heard of again boone remained so long away from home that his younger brother accompanied by a friend came in search of him instead of returning he sent his brother back for powder and bullets about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Abraham Lincoln and the Western Territories 1994 abraham lincoln was born in kentucky on the 12th day of february 1809 the log cabin which was his birth place was built on the south branch of nolin's creek three miles from the village of hodgensville on land which was then in the county of hardin but is now included in that of la rue his father thomas lincoln was born in 1778 his mother's maiden name was nancy hanks the lincoln family which appears to have been of unmixed english descent came to kentucky from berks county pennsylvania to which place tradition or conjecture asserts they had emigrated from massachusetts but they did not remain long in pennsylvania since they seem to have gone before 1752 to rockingham county virginia which state was then one with that of kentucky there is however so much doubt as to these details of their early history that it is not certain whether they were at first emigrants directly from england to virginia an offshoot of the historic lincoln family in massachusetts or of the highly respectable lincolns of pennsylvania 1 this obscurity is plainly due to the great poverty and lowly station of the virginian lincolns my parents said president lincoln in a brief autobiographic sketch were both born of undistinguished families second families perhaps i should say to this he adds that his paternal grandfather was abraham lincoln who migrated from rockingham county virginia to kentucky about 1781 or 2 although his cousins and other relatives all declare this grandsire's name to have been mordecai a striking proof of the ignorance and indifference of the family respecting matters seldom neglected
